South, GOP Win 16-Day Filibuster; Senate Gets 'Home Rule' Rent Bill

Gag Rule Showdown Nearing

Administration Takes 'Beating'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Its 16-day filibuster over and an alliance of Republicans and southern Democrats in control, the Senate today moved toward a showdown on a modified talk-gagging change in its rules.

Before the chamber is a majority-backed proposal—bitterly opposed as ineffective by a minority made up of Truman Democrats—to let the "yes" votes of 64 of the 96 senators end debate on most business.

Republicans and southern Democrats who sponsored it wrote into this compromise a provision for unlimited debate whenever a motion is made to change the Senate rules.

That's the kind of a motion—made February 28 by Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois—which kept the Senate knotted in a filibuster that came to a dramatic end at 11 p. m., EST last night.

At that hour, bi-partisan circlators of the compromise announced they had the pledges of 52 members to support it, and it alone. The 52 included 30 Democrats and 22 Republicans.

FILIBUSTER OVER

At a signal, Senator Olin Johnston (D-SC) ended a four-hour and 20-minute speech. He was the fourteenth Dixie lawmaker to hold the floor since the controversy began last month.

Johnston sat down.

The filibuster was over.

Senators were summoned by a quorum call.

When they had straggled in—some of them, sleepy-eyed, from cots in nearby cloakrooms—Vice President Barkley called for a vote on the motion Lucas had made 16 days before.

The vote was 78 to 0 to take up a resolution offered by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, and Senator Hayden (D-Ariz). It proposes that two-thirds of senators voting be permitted to gag debate at any time.

In the beginning, that was acceptable to Lucas, most of the Truman Democrats and most of the Republicans.

But the southerners, fighting any gag that would pave the way for President Truman's civil rights program, demonstrated by their talk they could balk any action on it.

More Snow In Sight

Mansfield was one of the coldest spots in the state early today when the mercury dipped to 13 degrees, but the cold diminished during the morning.

Mansfield's temperature was the lowest reported in the state. The high yesterday was 28.

Temperatures will climb above the freezing point throughout the state today, the weather bureau said.

Forecaster C. G. Andrus at Cleveland said a low pessure area is developing in the plain states and might bring snow or rain to Ohio tomorrow

Tonight's low will be in the twenties.

The State Highway department today said all roads slippery vicinity Cleveland and Chardon and in Ashtabula county; secondary roads slippery in spots in north central area extending to Lake Erie and vicinity Youngstown, Warren and Ravenna; Route 20 Ashtabula normal with balance of roads in state normal.

10-Year-Old Gives Birth To Daughter

WILMINGTON, Del. — (AP) — A 10-year-old girl has given birth to a daughter at Wilmington Memorial hospital, it was disclosed yesterday.

The child, born Sunday, weighed seven pounds and five ounces. Both mother and baby are doing well, the hospital said.

The hospital would not release the name of the mother, the doctor who attended her or any other details.

Guard Lets 3 Building Contracts

Shelby Contracting Firm Low Bidder

Contracts for the construction of three major buildings for the 164th National Guard Fighter squadron at the Municipal airport have been let to Friebel and Hartman, Shelby contractors, it was announced today by Capt. W. O. Ash, commanding officer of the 164th unit.

The low bid of $433,205.30 was submitted to the Army Engineers' district headquarters at Louisville, Ky., by the Shelby contracting company.

Construction of the new Air National Guard facilities is a part of the million-dollar program slated for the Mansfield airport by the U. S. Air Force.

Brig. Gen. E. H. Zistel, commanding officer of the five-state National Guard 55th Wing of which the 164th is a part, said earlier that $586,000 in administration buildings and underground gasoline storage tanks would be added to the Guard unit's facilities at a later date.

The Shelby firm's contract calls for the construction of a hangar 200 feet square, a warehouse 185 by 65 feet, and a central heating plant in a separate building.

Other bids submitted for the construction of the hangar and other buildings included a $489,910 offer from the Simon Small and Sons, Mansfield.

Roads will be paved or newly constructed by the company to serve the new facilities and a water storage reservoir and pump house will be built.

Contracts for the job will be signed next week and construction will begin within 10 days, according to the company. The building and other facilities will be completed within 400 days, the contract specifies.

The air group is leasing hangar space from the city of Mansfield.

The 164th now is at a strength of 350 enlisted men and officers, composed of the 164th Fighter Squadron, 164th Utility Flight (maintenance group), 164th Weather Station, and the 221st Air Service group.

Singing Ad No Soap for Screen Star

NEW YORK — (INS) — Husky voiced Tallulah Bankhead insists:

There is no Tallulah but Bankhead, and if a shampoo company wants to profit. it is no soap.

The Dixie-born actress has filed suit for $1,000,000 claiming that she has been humiliated by "offensive" use of her name in a radio singing commercial advertising a shampoo.

Comes now the defendants, according to the Tallulah's attorneys, Silver and Bernstein, with a singing commercial about "Tallulah the Tube," which recites:

"I'm Tallulah the tube of Prell
"And I've got a little something to tell
"Your hair can be radiant oh so easy
"All you've got to do is take me home and squeeze me."

Set Wage Hearing

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Public hearings on higher minimum wages for women and minors working in Ohio hotels and restaurants today were set for April 11.

15-Month Extension Approved

House Weakens Control Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Administration forces, smarting from the battering their rent control bill took before being passed by the House, today pinned their hopes for a stronger bill on the senate.

The House-passed measure would continue controls for 15 months under a "home rule" plan. This plan would allow any state, county or town to overrule the federal law and either set up its own controls or drop them entirely.

President Truman had asked for a 24-month extension of strong federal controls, plus several provisions—which he didn't get—to strengthen the hand of Housing Expediter Tighe Woods.

"We hope for a better bill in the Senate," Woods commented following the House action.

TOP PRIORITY

A bill to extend rent ceilings beyond March 31 has top Senate priority following the long battle of the filibuster.

Besides the "home rule" provision, the measure passed by the House on a 261 to 153 vote has some other sections not in the original administration proposal.

One of these would allow Woods to recontrol rental areas on which controls previously had been lifted. The House okayed that after Woods promised to lift controls on 100 rural areas if he got power to put them back on in case unusual rent boosts resulted.

He also received authority to sue landlords for triple damages for rent overcharges—something only tenants can do now.

See Longer Coal Strike

Drive Launched To Curb Lewis

PITTSBURGH — (UP) —Coal mine operators and miners were convinced today that John L. Lewis would extend his two-week mine holiday beyond March 28.

And members of the National Coal association in Washington began lining up for a fight to deprive the United Mine workers chief of his power to call his men out of the pits for "memorial" periods.

The "memorial holiday" called by Lewis last Monday already has idled more than 500,000 men, including 463,000 miners and 70,000 railroad employes. Industry in general has not felt the work stoppage, but it generally was conceded drastice layoffs would result in steel and allied industries if the holiday is extended.

John D. Battle, executive vice president of the National Coal association, said the current work stoppage is an "abuse" of the clause permitting Lewis to call memorial holiday.

Coal industry sources in Washington said the producers appear determined to try knocking the "holiday", provision out of the next contract.

VA Orders Cut For Hospitals

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Veterans Administration has ordered its hospital expansion program in Ohio reduced by 2,000 beds.

This cut is part of national reduction of 16,000 beds in the VA hospital program. President Truman directed the slash in January.

The revised program is now under review by a Senate Public Welfare subcommittee.

Starting today the subcommittee will hear witnesses from the various states affected by the cutback. Ohio's are scheduled to appear March 22.

FOUR ESCAPE 'SQUEEZE'—Four persons escaped injury yesterday afternoon near Lexington when this truck, loaded with four tons of table salt, collided with a Lexington resident's car and pinned the car against a tree. Leland Kissel, 29, Lexington, R. D. 1, driver of the car and the only one injured, suffered slight bruises on his left leg. The spilled salt, resembling snow, is shown scattered over the ground and through the wreckage in the foreground. — (N-J photo)

Oddities of Rent Control

Ex-Garage Brings More Than House

If you live in a converted garage and are paying $75 a month for the privilege, there is nothing you can do to get your rent lowered under the present rent control law. If, on the other hand, you're lucky enough to be living in a house which comes under rent control and are paying much less rent than its present value, there's very little your landlord can do about it

Because there are many housing units which do not come under rent control, wide discrepancies in rent can be found in almost any section of Mansfield.

On one street, in a good location, a six-room modern house is renting for $47 a month under federal rent control. On that same street a garage has been converted into two apartments which rent for $75 and $76 a month. Since the garage was previously a non-housing structure, it does not come under rent control.

Such instances are fair neither to landlords nor renters, but the area rent office can only see that the law is carried out.

Some landlords simply ignore the law and charge higher rents on properties which come under rent control. In such cases the renter can report the overcharge to the area office and the office receives many such complaints. But many renters are afraid to complain for fear they will be asked to move.

When overcharges are reported, the area office has the authority to ask a court to require the overcharges be refunded to the renter. If the renter wishes he can bring suit himself.

If he proves the overcharge was a willful violation of the law, he can ask three times the amount he was overcharged, plus attorney's fees and court costs.

A landlord may petition the area office for increases in maximum rent on properties covered by rent controls, if he has made a major capital immprovement, substantially increased services, or for a number of other reasons.

The present rent control law expires March 31. All controls on rent stop at that time unless Congress extends the law.

Rearming Race Starts

LONDON — (UP) — Western Europe, working under a newly-approved master defense plan, raced today to rearm before an expected major diplomatic crisis with Russia this summer.

The defense program, approved by the five western union countries in a two-day meeting here, called for each nation to arm as best it could and asked the United States for weapons that Europe cannot make.

Britian, as if trying to set the pace, announced that it was doubling its jet fighter strength. Britain also agreed to let France start manufacture of the British Vampire jet fighter. This plane has a range of 600 miles and a speed of 531 miles per hour.

An outline of the rearmament effort was approved by the foreign ministers of the five western union countries — Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — and the meeting that ended last night.

Liquor Fee Boost Up Before Senate

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The Ohio Senate was to vote today on a bill to increase all liquor fees by 50 per cent.

The bill, backed by Governor Lausche, was said by its sponsors to mean as much to the hard-pressed cities as six to eight million dollars more in the local government fund. Liquor license fees are returned to the site of collection.

Urges New Spy Probe

Ex-FBI Agent Raps Inactivity

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Rep. Velde (R-Ill.), a former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent and a member of the House un-American Activities committee, demanded today that the Soviet atomic espionage probe be reopened.

Velde asserted that during his work as an FBI agent from 1943 to 1946 "a Russian espionage ring was uncovered which was perhaps the most treacherous known in American history."

The ex-county jurist added:

"In my opinion, sufficient evidence was produced to enable successful prosecution of a substantial number of spies, among them some well-known American communists.

"Yet, to date, nothing has been done by the attorney general to apprehend these most dangerous criminals. The time has come for decent Americans to rise up and demand that something be done and done now.

New $20 Bills Worry Ohioans

CINCINNATI—(INS)—President Truman's White House balcony today was raising its own kind of furor to Cincinnatians.

Cincinnati residents who were either very observant or "flushed" with newly issued $20 bills were reported by secret Service Agent Thomas A. Gallaher to be asking if they had counterfeits.

Gallaher said Cincinnatians had taken notice of the added balcony on the "green side" of the new 20's. They didn't miss the change in the "grown shrubbery" around the White House.

McSweeney Better

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Rep. John McSweeney, D., O., was "resting comfortably" in naval hospital here today after becoming ill on the floor of the House yesterday.

Friendly House to Win

The Friendly House will be the big winner tonight when the Clevelnad Browns professional basketball team meets the Mansfield all-stars in a benefit game at Senior high school.

All proceeds, less expenses for bringing the Browns to gymnasium fund for the new Friendly House. The Goodfellows club, sponsors of the game, hope to raise nearly $2,000 for the gym equipment.

A crowd of more than 900 persons is indicated by advance sale of tickets according to Elmer Hedeen, co-chairman of the Goodfellows group. A capacity house of 1,200 is needed to reach the goal.

Tickets for the program are $2 for reserved seats and $1 for general admission and there will be plenty on hand when the gates open at 6:45 p. m. A prelim game will open the show at 7:30 with the feature attraction listed for 8:30. Reserve ticket holders will get an 11x19 picture of the Browns football team.

The basketball Browns are all members of the All-America championship football team. Included on the roster are: Otto Graham, Dante Lavelli, Mac Speedie, Marion Motley, Lou Groza, Cliff Lewis, Lou Rymkus, Edgar Jones and Horace Gillom.

Pennsy Train Demolishes Car Near Tiro

A Columbus man was killed and four persons were injured in two accidents yesterday and early today in the Mansfield area.

James Richardson, 47, of 26½ East Beck street, Columbus, lost his life at 4:30 a. m., today when his car was demolished by a northbound Pennsylvania passenger train five miles west of Shelby. State highway patrolmen said Richardson died instantly of a skull fracture.

A companion, Hugh Daugherty, 31, of 79 North Ohio avenue, Columbus, was held in Crawford county jail today while deputies sought to determine how a coop of chickens found in the Richardson car got there.

Daugherty, reportedly asleep at the time of the accident, escaped with contusions of the back and scalp lacerations. He was treated at Shelby Memorial hospital.

Patrolmen said the accident occurred in Crawford county, just west of the Richland county line.

Crawford County Sheriff Ralph E. Schreck said Daugherty would be questioned late today. Richland county deputies, Foster Palmer and Roscoe Swartz, who aided in the investigation, said Daugherty told them he and Richardson left Columbus shortly after 11 p. m. yesterday and that he fell asleep and didn't awaken until after the accident.

Deputies here said all but six of the 16 White Rock chickens in the car were killed in the accident.

Richardson's body was removed to the Dye funeral home in Shelby. He is survived by a wife, Eva, and daughter, Mary Ruth, both of the Columbus address. Arrangements were incomplete at noon.

CAR CRUSHED

Leland F. Kissel, 29, his wife, and daughter, Elizabeth Patricia, escaped with only minor bruises yesterday afternoon when their car was crushed between a tree and a truck, two and a half miles southwest of Lexington on U. S. Route 42.

State patrolmen said a truck, loaded with four tons of table salt, crashed into the rear of the Kissel car at a narrow bridge.

Patrolmen said the collision caused both vehicles to swerve to the left, pinning the Kissel car between a tree and the truck. The truck, owned by Chester Howard of Mt. Gilead, R. D. 3, was driven by William James Norman, 16, of Cardington, R. D. 3.

Officers said the wreckage held up traffic on the highway for more than an hour while workers pried the vehicles apart and swept up quantities of spilled salt. The mishap, which resulted in leg bruises to Kissel, occurred at 4 p. m. Patrolmen said the Kissel family would undergo examinations for bone injuries today at General hospital.

Slots Row Stirs Probe Of Lodges

Investigation of Groups Asked

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A lodge dispute over slot machines in Lorain resulted today in a call for a special legislature investigation of Ohio fraternal groups.

Rep. Edward W. De Chant (D-Lorain) proposed the investigation—aimed at enactment of legislation for regulation of such organizations.

De Chant said he called for the probe because of an alleged attempt by certain high officials of the Fraternal Order of Eagles to control the local Lorain lodge.

He showed a copy of a court petition, basis for a temporary injunction issued by the Lorain County Common Pleas court last week.

The injunction was against the order's grand and Ohio lodges and two high officials. It sought to restrain them from interfering with the conduct of the lodge until the case is disposed of on its merits.

The petition charged that Matthew I. Brown of Springfield, managing organizer of the grand lodge in charge of national membership, had attempted through his various representatives and especially Harley E. Gardell of Garfield Heights, to force the Lorain lodge "to operate slot machines on a percentage basis in its club rooms."

Meanwhile a Lancaster publisher and the state liquor enforcement chief disagreed today whether a confiscation of slot machines at Lancaster's Eagles lodge Jan. 20 was a publicity stunt.

R. Kenneth Kerr, publisher of the Eagle-Gazette in Lancaster, said he felt the raid was prompted by the unhappy hot ham cases."

Anthony A. Rutkowski, chief of the state liquor department's enforcement division, retorted: "I know nothing about the hot ham cases except that I saw something in the newspapers about them having some hot hams down there.

Rail Strike Continuing

ST LOUIS — (INS) — A union leader asserted early today that striking trainmen have not been ordered back to their jobs to end the system-wide paralyzing Wabash railroad tie-up.

Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen Vice President William F. Donoghue denied in St. Louis reports from Cleveland the President A. F. Whitney had told the men to return to work. He declared:

"I talked to him just a few minutes ago and he hasn't given me any such advice. Mr. Whitney hasn't given any such advice to anyone."

In Washington, however, the National Railway Mediation board said it "expects" the 3,500-odd operating employes to go back to their jobs today.

Involved in the walkout which began without warning yesterday morning are the BRT, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Order of Railway Conductors.

Pleads for 'Love Child'

BOSTON — (AP) — A distraught mother pleaded tearfully today for the "love child" the state charges she kept captive a dozen years in a dungeon-like room.

"As God is my judge, I love my boy," cried Mrs. Ann F. Sullivan. "I don't want to give him up."

Police said 14-year-old Gerald Sullivan was held in a barren room, furnished only with a cot, until he escaped into the street in an unguarded moment Sunday night.

Mrs. Sullivan, suffering from what physicians described as a terrible emotional upset, denied in an interview she kept the child locked up in the room.

She explained that she kept him in the house to "hide my shame" and to "protect the good name" of two older legitimate sons and a younger daughter.

Search Ruins For Fire Clue

OAKLAND, CAL. — (UP) — Evidence of sabotage was sought today in the embers of a $1,000,000 fire that destroyed a huge dock warehouse at the Oakland army base.

FBI agents and army officers sought to determine whether the fire was caused by arson. The flames consumed supplies of every description destined for Japan and Okinawa. The supplies included barrels of oil, auto parts and tires.

The fire broke out shortly after midnight yesterday and raged for more than three hours.

Tastier Tonic Than Sulphur and Molasses

Bock Beer Due Back Tomorrow

By WINTHROP RUGGLES

That annual harbinger of spring—Bock beer—will appear Thursday in Mansfield.

Although it comes out on March 17, Bock beer has no traditional connection with St. Patrick's day, except it's the day for the annual introduction of the drink.

The drinking of this darker-than-usual beer was begun in Germany as a festival to celebrate the first drawing of the beer made the previous fall. Today, Bock is greeted as a substitute for sulphur and molasses that is a little easier to take.

The name "Boch" is presumed to have originated in Germany, a beer-loving country. Since a goat's, or male sheep's head, usually was associated with the dark beer in advertising, the beer came to be known as "Bock" or "Boch" beer. "Boch" is the German term for goat."

This "goat" beer caught on in New York and other cities with palatial beer gardens, and in the 1890's early part of this century, posters showing goats were the popular advertisments for Bock beer.

The original Bock beer was the first spring run-off of the brewery. Today the Bock found in both bottles and draft is prepared especially for spring in the late fall with a more heavily-sugared malt than usual.

Falls to Death

SAN FRANCISCO — (UP) — A house painter died after trying to do a friend a good turn. Harry Johnson was shaving when his next door neighbor came to the door and told him he was locked out of his room. Johnson told him to sit tight and he'd open it for him. He crawled out on a ledge between the two apartments, slipped, and fell four stories to his death.

Coed Drops Dead On Way to Class

COLUMBUS — (UP) — A rare physical ailment was blamed today for the death of a pretty 21-year-old Ohio State university coed, who collapsed enroute to take a final exam.

Miss Marian Bernice Stone, daughter of New York Theatrical manager Julius Stone, collapsed on the street here yesterday afternoon. She died in a hospital three house later.

Policemen Lose Out In Race With Death

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Suburban Garfield Heights police, speeding through driving snow in an effort to prevent a suicide, arrived too late yesterday.

The police summoned by Mrs Mary Holocker, who said her husband, William, 38, was bandishing a 38-caliber revolver in their back yard.

By the time police had arrived, Holocker had fatally wounded himself.

The Gabriels, on Feb. 2, were sued for $4,000 by Stephen E. Lester, 45 West Fifth street, who charged he was assaulted and beaten by the pair last Dec. 24. In this action the Gabriels have denied the allegations and asked the court to dismiss the suit.

Choose Book For Children Unhurriedly

Content, Not Cover, Precious Factor

As you know, some fine books for children have been published in recent years. In planning your choice of gifts, you should examine some of these books at your local book store and seek advice about them at your local public library.

Don't be carried away just by their color. Ask yourself if they are the kind of literature you want your child to be exposed to and if they will continue to appeal to him. Will he read repeatedly from the book you choose? If too young to read, will he keep begging you to read from it over and over again?

Along with a few of the newer books, choose as gifts a goodly number of the precious books that have been enjoyed profitably by children over the years, books which have stood the test of time. Naturally the person at the book store will urge you to buy just the newer books. They have more current publicity and offer bigger returns to the book-seller.

If you are not familiar with the time-tested treasures confer with your local librarian or your child's teacher or school principal. Many of these classics have been brought out as beautiful reprints. For the child under five or six a number of very attractive volumes of Mother Goose are on the market. "The Child's Garden of Verses," by Robert Louis Stevenson; "When We Were Very Young," and "Now I Am Six," by A. A. Milne hardly have an equal for good poetry. A great favorite of children just beginning to listen to rhymes is "Johnny Crow's Garden," by Leslie Brooks. It has just an illustrated line to the page. The baby likes to turn the page or have it turned, often.

BEAUTY — Beauty and her beast as portrayed by Maggy Saragne and Usette, both of Paris.

Among the never-ending charms for young children (to hear or read) are such classics as 'Little Black Sambo,' Helen Bannerman; 'Golden Goose Book,' Leslie Brooks; 'Alice in Wonderland,' Lewis Carroll, 'Children of the Wild,' Theresa Deming; 'Just-So Stories,' Rudyard Kipling; 'Tale of Peter Rabbit,' Beatrix Potter.

And here are a few of the "tried and true", many of which are in beautiful reprint editions, appealing to the child from eight to twelve: 'Winnie-the-Pooh,' A A. Milne; 'English Fairy Tales' Joseph Jacobs; 'Household Stories', Jakob and Wilhelm Grimm; 'Story of Dr. Doo Little,' Hugh Lofting; 'Adventures of Pinocchio,' Carlo Lorenzini: 'Heidi'. Johanna Spyri; 'East o' the Sun and West o' the Moon,' Gurden Thorne-Thomsen 'Fairy Tales.' Hans Andersen; 'Through the Looking Glass,' Lewis Carroll; 'Robinson Crusoe,' Daniel Defoe; 'Hans Brinker,' Mary M. Dodge; 'Wind in the Willows,' Kenneth Graham; 'Jungle Book,' Rudyard Kipling; 'Merry Adventure of Robinhood; Howard Plye; 'King of the Golden River,' John Ruskin; 'Wild Animals I Have Known,' Ernest T. Seton; 'Treasure Island,' Robert Louis Stevenson; 'Adventures of Tom Sawyer,' Mark Twain.

FLOATING NUMBERS—No, those numbers are not floating around in mid air. The numbers represent the brightness (expressed in footlamberts) of various parts of Room 101 at John Simpson junior high school. By comparing one figure with another, a ratio of brightness of one part of the room with another can be computed. Russell C. Putnam, consulting illuminating engineer of Cleveland, who prepared the survey, said in a report that the brightness ratios in the room, except for one case, are better than accepted recommendations.

Test Room at Simpson Shows Ideal Lighting

A short time ago school officials, studying methods of illumination in an effort to provide the best possible lighting in Mansfield public schools, made an interesting discovery.

They found painting classroom ceilings white doubled the amount of light thrown on desks. This was determined through the use of a light meter.

As a result, all of the ceilings at John Simpson junior high school and Senior high school have been painted white. The ceilings at Johnny Appleseed junior high school now are being painted.

But the changes go further than that. The upper half of the walls are painted either a light green if the room is exposed to the sourth or a light warm color if exposed to the north. These light colors have a high reflection factor.

Glenn L. Robinson, business manager of Mansfield public schools, pointed out that while black absorbs 95 per cent of the light received, white has a reflection factor of more than 88 per cent.

CONFERENCE EXHIBIT

The best-lighted room in the entire school system is Room 101 at John Simpson junior high school. That room was set up for the district school lighting conference held here April, 23, 1948, attended by 300 educators.

A lighting consulting engineer, Russell C. Putnam, of Cleveland, said in a report, resulting from a photometric survey made last Nov. 26, that Room 101 either meets or surpasses the recommendations for school room lighting.

Room 101 and another room at Simpson have fluorescent lighting arrangements for comparison purposes.

Room 101 has indirect flourescent lighting while the other experimental room has direct flourescent lighting.

One factor to be considered in the lighting picture is the high cost of setting up a room like 101.

Robinson said all new grade schools buildings will have the new lighting arrangements while the new lights were installed in the new Roseland and Rebecca Grubaugh schools.

Plans are to put the new flourescent lights in Senoir high school — if there is sufficient money remaining from the bond issues, Robinson said.

Room 101 has desks with light tops and green chalk boards instead of black

It also has rows of glass-spun material screens at the windows to diffuse the sunlight entering the room.

Probe Misuse Of Vet Funds

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The regular grand jury in Franklin county will take up the investigation March 22 of veterans housing funds begun by a special grand jury last year.

Belmont county Judge Clifford L. Belt threw out four indictments returned by the special jury, ruling that state funds become county funds when transferred to the county treasurer. The special jury had been called at the request of former Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins.

Indicted previously for allegedly mishandling $337,637 in housing moeny, former Franklin county commissioner George W. Matson and three contractors are now under bond pending outcome of the new probe.

Happy Family Atmosphere Invaluable

Parental Love Guides Youngsters

Blessed is the little child whose parents read to him. No wages or salaries could be big enough to pay for their time, since they invest in the imperishables.

The ugly books with ugly ideas and ideals would soon perish on the trash heap if parents would put good printed pages into the hands of their growing children.

Good playthings and playgrounds are many times cheaper than prisons and penitentiaries.

Even better than good playmates are good parents, who appreciate the creations of a child with words and things. The more children who make things for fun at home, the fewer will just make things at an industrial school (reformatory).

Better to laugh and do things for fun hours and days with children at home, than to worry and weep over them for months and years away from home.

Children who gain a taste for good things they hear and do at home, while very young, will be the readier to enjoy hearing and doing good things when they are older.

The more hours we spend at fun with our children at home, the fewer hours will we worry about them away from home.

A few good sturdy playthings are better than a ton of trash.

Fortunate is the child of 3, 10, or 15 whose playmates and friends come often to his home.

If there were enough homes with parents who together enjoy their children and give them a happy, lovely family atmosphere in which to grow as precious personages, most of our police could presently be turned to other work and most of our jails and penitentiaries could be torn down or be converted into play piaces for everybody.

Let us so live with our children in our presence they will want to do right in our absence.

The foundations of good character and citizenship are laid in the home, and the materials are understanding, family fellowship, parental example, wise guidance, and abiding love.

The growing child who learns at home to respect the rights and feelings of all others there, has a good beginning for respecting the rights and feelings of other persons everywhere.

What parents invest now in time and money for the best moral growth and education of our children will go on bringing in rich dividends for years and years and these dividends will never perish.

Isn't it wonderful to grow up with our children and enjoy them and win their affection and esteem?

Children who create for fun don't destroy for pleasure.

Good citizenship or crime begins at the crib.

Enough intelligent parental love can help a child to grow up right or even salvage him should he go wrong.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Spring Means Fun!

Full Schedule Set For City's Youth

You don't have to glance at the calendar when Junior limbers up his marble shooting thumb, Jimmy oils his skates and Big Sister starts dreaming of her Prom dress.

You know it's spring.

Pop may fall asleep over the seed catalogue and Mom may start talking about house cleaning, but it's not official until the younger generation does something about it.

And that contagious metamorphosis of the season seems to be affecting everyone from the kindergarten age to high school candidate-graduates.

Graceful pussy willows and bright yellow jonquils are replacing the winter scenes in school house windows.

It's a pretty sure thing that no stick of polished ash is going un-noticed in basements this time of year. Longer daylight hours have already converted many a vacant lot into spring training headquarters for neighborhood baseball teams.

Pretty soon, now, youngsters will begin counting the days until that wonderful whole week of spring vacation when books are put aside and play reigns supreme.

After that, there's a fleeing thought of final exams at school and then—graduation for some; three glorious months of vacation for all.

GRADUATION LOOMS

Already, plans for high school graduations in Mansfield are in high gear. At both St. Peter's and Senior high schools student committees have been named for the various activities of the senior year event.

At Senior high, where 375 pupils are now candidates for diplomas this June, committee activity is in high gear. The class day committee will have their job over first as class day is the opener of the festivities on May 27.

Another gala prom is scheduled for this spring with a repetition of the "all-night" session, inaugurated last year, hoped for.

And what comes next? Why, weeks at the lake with the "gang", camping, visits to the farm or a motor trip with the family to some interesting place.

Yessir, spring's a wonderful season.

Careful Shampooing Is Secret Of Well-Groomed Child Hair

There is no trick to keeping children's hair well groomed. It's just as simple as brushing it every night with a good stiff hair brush — if the hair is clean.

If a child has excessively oily hair, do not be afraid to give the hair two or three washings a week. A soft water, creme shampoo should be used. Most popular brands of shampoo come in three preparations, for oily hair, regular hair and dry hair.

After the shampoo, three or four rinsings may be required to get all the soap out of the scalp. If soap is left, it forms a dull filmy coat which detracts from the appearance of the hair and also left over soap may account for an itchy scalp.

Most parents of girls seem to forget that hair should be cut all year, not just in the summer. A good healthy head of hair is cut every three months to keep it growing in thick and strong.

For the care of a child's skin, the most important element is diet. The child with the pink cheeks and "peaches and cream" complexion is the child who drinks plenty of milk and orange juice and eats a lot of raw vegetables If a good diet is provided for a youngster it will not be necessary, ordinarily, to use medical preparations to clear up the skin.

A good way to clean a child's face is to lather it with soap and then leave the lather on the face for a minute while the hands and knees are attended to. Then go back over the face, first with a fairly hot rinsing and then with a cold one

Make sure that all the soap is removed from the face with the rinsings.

If blemishes do appear on the child's skin, calamine lotion will, in all probability, dry them up. This is a harmless preparation that can in no way harm a child's skin. But remember that the most important assurances to a clear skin are a good diet and proper cleansing.

Noted 'Dry' Dies

FEPC, Anti-Gambling Bills Face Tough Sledding In Assembly

Measures Given Cool Reception

Senators 'Duck' Inviting Lausche

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A rocky legislative road lay ahead today for Governor Lausche's FEPC and anti-gambling proposals.

Lausche intervened personally yesterday afternoon in behalf of Fair Employment Practices legislation — and still couldn't guarantee its House passage.

And, on the Senate side, he offered to appear before the Senate Judiciary committee last night in support of his bills to permit a governor to remove sheriffs from office and to padlock premises used as gambling joints — only he wasn't invited.

The bills were given a cool first hearing by the committee with only one witness — Mrs. Keith Weigle, president of the Ohio Parent-Teachers congress — appearing in support of them.

At the close of the hearing, Chairman Howard Metzenbaum (D-Cleveland) announced that Lausche was in his office "and is available if the committee wishes to interrogate him."

Sen. Edward Sawicki (D - Cleveland) moved to invite the governor up — but there was no second to the motion and it died without action.

Sawicki said the bill possibly should be aimed at prosecuting attorneys rather than sheriffs, and was backed by Sen. Evan P. Ford (D-Columbus) who sponsored an amendment to include prosecutors and county commissioners as well as sheriffs. The governor now has the power to remove mayors. The amendment was held over until the next meeting.

Despite the coolness of the hearing, the bills seemed to have the necessary votes. Observers predicted they would be recommended for passage by a 6-3 or 5-4 vote of the committee.

Opponents of the bills, including representatives of the Buckeye State Sheriffs association, the fraternal organizations, and the railroad brotherhoods, contended they were infringements on home rule.

The brotherhood spokesman, H. R. Knowles of Toledo, limited his opposition to the sheriff bill and said it might lead to a governor's removing a sheriff as the result of a labor dispute.

The other witnesses cited the present law which provides for the recall of a sheriff through court trial if demanded by a petition signed by 15 per cent of the voters at the last general election.

Sen. Robert Ragan (D-Toledo) suggested that perhaps the 15 per cent law now in the books should be broadened to include initiation on complaint of the governor.

This, he said, would put the removal attempt through the courts and would not have the governor acting both as prosecutor and judge.

Meanwhile, the Democratic majority in the House caucused for two and a half hours on the FEPC bill and agreed to bring it up for a floor vote next Tuesday.

Faces Chair In Slaying

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — Dwight David Tudor, 26, of Columbus, was convicted of first degree murder last night in the school-yard shooting of 14-year-old Mary Ann Page.

The jury deliberated two hours and 10 minutes, returning a verdict of guilty without recommendation of mercy. The verdict carries a death penalty.

Tudor was accused of slaying the Springfield school girl last Oct. 3.

The three women and nine men returned their verdict at 10:20 p. m. and were polled by Tudor's defense counsel. All replied in the affirmative. The killer's sister and a girl friend, Lillian Weaver, of Columbus, broke down and sobbed as the decision was read.

Throughout the trial defense attorneys had maintained that the Columbus man was insane.

Pre-School Exams Set For County

Will Be Held April 1-May 4

Pre-school examinations for children who will enter the 14 Richland county rural schools next fall will be held April 1 through May 4, the health department announced today.

Pre-school examinations for the children in Mansfield will be held sometime in June.

The aim of the pre-school clinic is to have every child a healthy first grader, Dr. Harry Wain, county health commissioner said.

A childs' vision, hearing, and general physicial condition will be checked by physicians who will co-operate under the plan to give every child that enters school an examination.

The examinations will be held in each school building at a designated hour.

Every parent should understand the importance of this pre-school examination, Dr. Wain said.

The first year of school is a childs' initial exposure to competition with others. A physicial defect, such as vision, or hearing, could go unnoticed and the child could fail to learn readily because of it, he pointed out.

Schedule for the county schools is as follows: Morton and Shelby Settlement—April 1 at 2 p. m.; East Mansfield—April 4 at 1 p. m.; Lincoln Heights—April 5 at 1 p. m.; Lexington—April 6 at 1 p. m.; Ontario—April 8 at 1 p. m.; Woodville—April 8 at 1 p. m.; Koogle—April 12 at 1 p. m.; Plymouth—April 14 at 1 p. m.; Lucas—April 26 at 1 p. m.; Bellville—April 27 at 8:30 a. m.; Adario—April 28 at 9:30 a. m.; Union Township (Amoy, British, Franklin, Olivesburg and Pavonia) April 28 at 1 p. m.; Shiloh—April 29 at 1 p. m.; Bulter—May 4 at 1 p. m.

Deaf Parents 'Hear' Baby By Means of Flashing Lights

PONCA CITY, OKLA., — (UP) — Science has gone nature one better so far as 19-day-old Carl Victor Coates is concerned. The baby is not only wired for sound, but has his own lighting effects.

Electronic devices enable Carl's parents, Mr. and Mrs Carl Coates, to "hear" their youngster even though both parents are deaf.

When the infant cries for diaper service, or frets with hunger, signals flash in the Coates' household.

The father, a linotypist for the local newspaper, said the electric baby signal is the latest of several gadgest which permit Mrs. Coates and him to see what other people hear.

"Our doorbell isn't a bell at all, but a flashing signal," Coates explained. "Our alarm clock turns on a bedlamp but doesn't make a sound."

The baby's perfectly-normal sound effects are translated into something that can be seen by a series of electrical installations at his crib, Coates said the device is the invention of the radio engineer institute of Omaha, Nebr.

Little Carl's flash signal works on the same principle as some types of burglar alarms. A microphone picks up noises at his crib, feeds them into an amplifier and relay which throws a swtich on the signal light.

The father said the device can be made to work on the slightest noise, such as the tapping of a finger on the edge of the crib.

"We can pick up his tiniest gurgle if we want to," said Coates, "or we can set the instrument so we'll sleep right on through all but his loudest demands."

Plan Blood Donor Drive

Committee Prepares For Bloodmobile

Recruiting for the Red Cross Bloodmobile's next visit here March 28 and 29 will be organized on the basis of the general Red Cross plan, it was announced yesterday by Desmond Walker, chairman of the recruitment committee of the blood donor program here.

The general plan sets up contact with all church groups, Retail Merchants' associations, industry, and similar organizations.

Recruiting plans were made at a committee meeting at the chapter house Monday night.

The committee also set up a new schedule to go into effect March 28. For the convenience of office and industrial workers, the schedule for the first day will be from noon until 6 p. m. On March 29 the usual schedule of 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. will be in effect.

Walker told the group of Red Cross workers if 10 per cent of all church, industrial, and civic groups in Mansfield and Richland county gave blood once each year for the Red Cross blood donor program, the quota of 2,100 pints for the year would be met.

This plan would take care of requirements of 100 pints each day of the Bloodmobile's visit and allow for overlapping, Walker said.

Present at the meeting were Walker; Mrs. Stuart Weaver, blood donor chairman; Ira L. Bronson; Frank Berkey; Dwight McCullough; Mayor Roy W. Vaughn; Mrs. Coleman Todd; Mrs. Ephraim Brown; Miss Clara Schumm; Alvin Preyer; and Mrs. Bess Augsberger, executive director.

Members of the YMCA Hi-Y bicycle court met with city officials last night at the Municipal court room to plan the court's opening on April 2.

Paul W. Ritchie, clerk of the Municipal court, demonstrated and explained the procedures of keeping an accurate account of all court happenings. He will meet Saturday with the two YMCA boys who will be the clerks of the bicycle court to help them with the actual setting up of the paper work involved in a court

Traffic Patrolman Robert L. Garver, representing the police traffic division, presented the part of the program the traffic division will play in the court. Cities Seek Aid From State

Mayor Roy W Vaughn is among leaders of Ohio city governments who are meeting in Columbus to discuss a legislative program with Gov. Frank J. Lausche that would give increased aid to municipalities.

The Association of Ohio Municipalities is asking that 30 to 40 per cent of the sales tax collections be allocated to them. The cities group also wants to keep the locally-levied admissions tax and the intangible taxes.

From what Lausche has said, however, it appeared that the best the municipalities can hope for is a 15 per cent allocation of the sales tax.

Miners' Strike Arouses Resentment

OBSERVERS can scarcely fail to see an association of ideas between the present two-weeks' strike by coal miners, arbitrarily called by John L. Lewis, and current discussion of the Taft-Hartley law, repeal of which is being demanded by some leaders of organized labor.

With thousands of railroad workers unwillingly thrown out of employment because of the shutdown in coal production, opportunity is given to realize the far-reaching effects of a strike in any one basic industry, and some form of restrictive legislation is deemed necessary in guarding the general welfare instead of permitting minority groups to impose hardships upon other workers and their families.

While, as an administration gesture, it is just possible that the Taft-Hartley law will be repealed—so as to give it another name—it has become apparent that practically all of the restrictive provisions of the present law will be carried into whatever new labor law is finally agreed upon in House and Senate and that efforts will continue to prevent strikes which endanger public health and safety, and to punish those who indulge in acts of violence during what is called "peaceful picketing."

Human nature being what it is, it seems natural that the Senate interior committee should approve the nomination of Dr. James Boyd as director of the federal bureau of mines immediately after Lewis called the miners' strike as a protest against Boyd's service in that capacity.

Final action on the Boyd appointment, however, should be on the basis of qualifications, rather than on Lewis's objections or Senate resentment over the mine leader's attempt at coercion.

Urge Unity Against Communists

IT IS GENERALLY agreed that such systems as communism and fascism fear the power of religion. Leaders of this type of set-up tend to draw to themselves a devotion akin to religious feeling, and in order to increase this devotion are ruthless in destroying the framework of religion in the countries they dominate.

Recent pronouncements by religious leaders in this country show a realization of the necessity for all religious forces to unite in constructive opposition to the communist campaign of persecution of religious leaders. Rabbi Nathan A. Perilman of New York declared recently:

> "The various denominations must learn the simple truth that whatever militancy faith can manifest must be directed not against men of other faiths but against the enemies of all faith."

Catholics, Protestants, and Jews can, if they will, unite on a broad common ground of spiritual truth which is independent of dogma. Such unity should be strongly asserted in the face of the destructive tactics of communism.

What Next For Ousted Gamblers?

AS OTHER Ohio counties move to oust gambling racketeers, under urgency by Governor Lausche, cities and counties not yet brought into the limelight by investigators may well be on guard against an influx of professional gamblers being driven from their customary haunts.

Mansfield, for instance, would seem a likely place for some of them to come, as local officials are quite consistently ignoring state and municipal anti-gambling laws, and there seems no reason why anyone should be denied privileges now accorded to so many operators of illegal gambling places of various sorts.

Mansfield has been variously designated as "the Trunk Line City," "the City of Churches," and "the City of Blue Ribbon Children"—and has gained national recognition in many commendable ways. It is a troublesome thought that its present trend is toward gaining prominence as "a haven of racketeers."

Many Changes In Germany's Laws

REPRESENTATIVES of the German people who have built a framework for the country's new legal system have had one thing in their favor: They have been able to start from scratch.

The constitution will thus contain some provisions new to Germany and some which are found in the basic law of no other country. Equal rights are provided for men and women, thus doing away with Germany's former archaic system which gave women few rights either privately or politically.

As for international affairs, the preparation for or waging of war is unconstitutional. Another important provision allows the government to yield authority to an international agency and to join in alliances for mutual aid and protection.

The military government will grant no police powers to the constitutional government, however, and will not at present permit the inclusion of Berlin as a province.

The provisions of this constitution which show the application of enlightened modern thought augur well for a future peaceful development for Germany. The section outlawing preparation for war, incidentally, was not imposed by an occupation statute but was freely arrived at by the Germans themselves. The one thing to be hoped is that this provision of their own constitution may mean more to the Germans in the future than some of their treaties have meant in the past.

WHAT IS A BOY?

He is a person who is going to carry on what you have started.

He is to sit right where you are sitting and attend when you are gone to those things you think are so important.

You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they will be carried out depends upon him.

Even if you make leagues and treaties he will have to manage them.

He is going to sit at your desk in the Senate, and occupy your place as President.

He will assume control of your cities, states and nation.

He is going to move in, take over your prisons, churches, schools, universities and corporations.

All your work is going to be judged and praised or condemned by him.

Your reputation and your future are in his hands.

All your work is for him, and the fate of the nation and of humanity is in his hands.

So it might be well to pay him some attention.

Rankin Bill Challenged

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — Next week the House of Representatives must face the first touchy political issue of the new 81st Congress in the proposed $90-a-month pension after age of 65 for all veterans of the first and second World wars, sponsored by Rep. John Rankin (D., Miss.)

Democratic leaders have found they can not wiggle off the spot on which the rebellious Mississippian has put them and the Truman administration and can not keep the measure from the floor.

This is as it should be, for the people are entitled to have their representatives stand up and be counted and meet their responsibilities, if there is to be responsible government.

There would seem to be enough grounds for opposition in the high-handed manner in which the vengeful Mr. Rankin jammed through his veterans affairs committee in seven minutes this untimely and carelessly drawn bill which would load the economy with 125 billion dollars in the next half century, according to the estimate of Frank Pace, jr., director of the budget.

But, for the especially timid, there is an excellent case in the thoroughly documented report submitted by Budget Director Pace to Rep. John Carroll (D., Colo.) and filed with the rules committee.

This offers as the more fair, reasonable and economic way of meeting this problem the administration bill to expand social security coverage and to increase its benefits, in which veterans are included with other citizens. This over-all national measure now is being considered by the House ways and means committee and veterans would better direct their attention to what goes on in that committee than to the ill-conceived will-o'-the-wisp dangled before them by the Mississippi congressman in his vendetta against the Truman administration.

* * *

Increasing Benefits.

IN HIS report, Mr. Pace holds that the primary obligation is to service-disabled veterans and their families and to the dependents of veterans who died in the war or from service causes, and he cites the very liberal benefits these are now receiving from their government by various acts of Congress.

As for other veterans, he shows how in most cases they will receive as generous treatment under the expanded social security program in the way of old-age pensions, temporary or permanent disability insurance, and benefits for widows and children as in the Rankin bill. In some cases such benefits would be more substantial; in others, somewhat less.

He explained how special treatment for veterans was necessary in the past, since there were not then, as there are now, all sorts of government programs, including social security, in which the veterans share along with everybody else

Veterans of the two world wars are eligible for all these benefits under present programs and the contemplated social security expansion.

Under present veterans compensation laws most veterans of 65 or over who are in need can qualify for a pension of $72 a month, the budget director showed, while under the expanded social security program the vast majority of veterans reaching the age of 65 will have been employed sufficiently long to receive benefits that compare favorably with those under the Rankin measure.

Veterans also would be covered under the temporary and permanent disability insurance proposed in the pending social security expansion bill, along with non-veterans.

In concluding, Budget Director Pace said, "it is not possible to justify a commitment now to pay out of general tax receipts more than $125 billion for veterans' pensions in the next 50 years, and many additional billions thereafter, when we have before congress a program that will meet the same needs on a broader basis."

Washington Calling

Cost May Be Justified

By MARQUIS CHILDS

BEHIND the hydroelectric dams that have been built on several of America's great rivers since 1933 is a concept of the general good. Specifically, they were intended to provide flood control and navigation for all the people of the region.

For that reason part of the cost was charged up by instruction of Congress to benefits which would not directly return any revenue to the treasury.

This is a fact that private utility propagandists either refuse to recognize or deliberately distort.

Utility propagandists are constantly holding up the cost accounting of TVA alongside that of private utilities, although in the broader sense they are not comparable at all.

This same implication runs through the task force reports of the Hoover Commission on public power. As was told in this space, those reports, not yet released, have stirred deep differences among commission members.

That is unfortunate since the detailed and lengthy studies contain many suggestions for improving the operation of these vast federal enterprises. The danger is that the good will be lost sight of in the heat of argument over what are essentially political issues.

Some commission members have expressed the fear that the controversy may cut across all the valuable work that the Hoover group has done in trying to prune and pare down the luxuriant jungle growth of government.

* * *

Measure the Benefits.

IN A REPORT prepared for the commission by A. B. Roberts, consulting engineer of Cleveland, it is estimated that multiple-purpose river valley projects will cost $40,000,000,000 in the next 20 years.

The report suggests that the total cost may be even larger because of "extensive shipments of steel, power-plant equipment and supplies for aid to Europe." Then the author of the report says:

"In view of the continuing burden of taxation indicated by the trends shown above, it is believed that now is the time to reappraise the accomplishments to be anticipated from multiple-purpose projects. Once under way, they are almost impossible to eliminate. Unless the Congress and the taxpayers consider carefully the implications of these trends of federal expenditures, they may, without even realizing it, throw upon themselves and their children a continuing and perhaps an ever-mounting burden.."

Millions of Americans paying their income tax this week feel strongly about the volume of government spending. But it is doubtful that the place to begin cutting is on projects that are in considerable part self-liquidating and that contribute so largely to the wealth and welfare of the nation.

Only in an economy that is expanding and growing can the burden of taxation for European aid and to maintain a strong America be sustained.

Once you stop expansion, you run the risk of mounting unemployment and further curtailment in a downward spiral.

This is a lesson some people never seem to learn. As was shown in the controversy between TVA and the private utilities, private operators would never have built TVA's dams and power projects.

Equally clear is the fact that without TVA power the country could never have produced the aluminum for 50,000 planes a year in the war.

Atlantic Pact To Cover Immense Area

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—The North Atlantic Pact, most important international agreement since President Monroe set forth the Monroe Doctrine, will be released to the public later this week.

Meanwhile, it can be revealed that the pact embraces all of Europe and the United States, plus the Atlantic Ocean north of the Tropic of Cancer.

In this huge area, no aggressor nation, in the present instance presumably Russia, can attack any ship, airplane, or territory of the North Atlantic allies without automatically incurring the joint opposition of all the other allies.

Furthermore, should Russia attack U. S. forces in the American zone of Berlin, the other signatory nations would be obligated to side with the United States. Actually, the American zone of Berlin is not mentioned in the treaty, but it is included in the geographical area.

Also included in the geographical area is most of Mexico and French North Africa.

The pact does not call for an automatic declaration of war. Furthermore, it preserves the structure of the United Nations and provides for consultation under it. Nevertheless, Article 5, the most important part of this historical treaty, states categorically:

"The parties agree that an armed attack upon any one of the signatories constitutes an armed attack upon all, whether the attack takes place in Europe or North America."

Article 7 also states: "If such an attack takes place, each will exercise the right of self-defense recognized by international law and each party to the agreement will act under Article 51 of the United Nations charter to report the attack to the security council and go to the defense of each other."

"An armed attack," it is also stated, "means any intrusion on the territory of any nation in Europe or in North America."

* * *

Summary of Pact.

A BRIEF summary of the historic treaty follows:

Art. 1—Lays down the principle of peaceful settlement of international differences.

Art. 2—Specifies that the signers shall collaborate economically as well as politically and militarily.

Art. 3 and 4—Outline the elemental principles—after which the signers will mutually assist each other and consult with each other.

Art. 5—Quoted above, invites recognition of the fact that an attack directed against one among them is an attack directed against all, and asks them to take immediate action.

Art. 6—Sets forth the description of what constitutes an armed attack and gives the geographical limits in which the attack must take place—north of the Tropic of Cancer.

Art. 7—Defines the relation between the Atlantic Pact and the United Nations, and recognizes the supreme authority of the security council for maintaining the peace of the world.

Art. 8—Declares that the pact recognizes the validity of existing international obligations to which the signers of the pact may already be obligated.

Art. 9—Describes plans to render the terms of the pact effective.

Art. 10 and 11—Contain the usual final clauses relative to the admission of eventual other signers and the duration and ratification of the pact.

75-Cent Minimum Wage.

ONLY insiders know how close the 75 cents-an-hour minimum-wage bill came to being ambushed in the House labor committee. It was finally reported out only after chairman John Lesinski of Michigan and fellow Democrat Graham Barden of North Carolina exchanged verbal hand grenades behind closed doors.

The two Democrats who rescued the minimum-wage bill were C. M. Bailey of West Virginia and Hugo Sims of South Carolina. Three other Democrats—John Wood of Georgia, Wingate Lucas of Texas, and Barden—voted with nine Republicans against the 75-cent minimum wage. After it was over, Barden voted with the 13 Democrats and one Republican, Brehm of Ohio, in a 15-6 ballot to report the bill. Wood and Lucas still voted no, along with four Republicans. Other Republicans voted "present."

Before the showdown, however, Barden angrily charged Lesinski with "trying to buy Congressman Sims' vote."

"I don't know what you mean," shot back Lesinski. "We're not offering concessions to anyone to vote with us. Everyone on this committee is entitled to express and vote his views. I haven't attempted to influence the gentleman from South Carolina."

Sims, a former combat paratrooper, didn't seem to need a spokesman. Looking squarely at Barden of North Carolina, Sims of South Carolina snapped: "I have been for a strong minimum-wage bill from the start. The record will show it. Even before we started hearings I predicted the bill would pass Congress.

"As a southerner, I would like to add that higher minimum wages for working people is one of the solutions to economic problems in the south."

Barden upbraided Lesinski for not inviting him to off-the-record caucuses on minimum-wage strategy.

Later, Barden, an able congressman, apologized for the outburst and joined with the committee majority in finally voting out the minimum-wage bill.

Isn't 'Mad' at Anybody

By INEZ ROBB

UVALDE, Texas.—More than fifty-five years ago, a young lawyer came to Uvalde in search of health. His name was John Nance Garner and he had come to this high, dry region in hope of curing tuberculosis, from which he suffered.

His worldly goods consisted of a small trunk full of clothes and books, and $150 in cash. He put his money in a Uvalde bank, which he eventually was to own, and hung out his shingle, for he had to earn his living even while convalescing.

Before he had cornered many clients, the young man was asked to sit in a poker game. The next morning he banked $440 in $20-gold pieces. From the moment he hit Uvalde, luck was with him, luck backed by intelligence and perseverance.

Uvalde not only gave him health but wealth, and started him on the road to political honors that led to two terms in the vice-presidency. Now in political retirement, John Nance Garner, 80, continues here in his role as the patriarch and first citizen of Uvalde.

As he walks the streets of this small city, population 11,500, half the populace still calls him "Judge" Garner, remembering the far-off years a half century ago when he was county judge. The other half calls him "Mister Garner."

No one in Uvalde has ever had the temerity to call its first citizen either "Jack", or "Cactus Jack," nicknames thought up by fresh easterners.

The judge owns half of Uvalde today. His interests comprise banks, business buildings, housing projects, real estate, and ranches whose lands total 46,000 acres.

His joy in retirement to Uvalde, which he loves dearly, has been dimmed only by the long illness and death of "Miss Ettie," his wife for more than fifty years and his inseparable companion, until her death last August. Mrs. Garner's death has taken a heavy toll on the sage of Uvalde.

But even so, he looks as stout as an oak keg, and he may well live to be 93, the mark he set himself long ago. With his snow white hair, heavy white eyebrows and his bright complexion, he looks like a happy combination of Foxy Grandpa and St. Nicholas.

He thinks of the years in Washington with mellow satisfaction. As he sat on the sun porch, he said that he "never regrets when I've done the best I can. It's only when I think I could have done better that I want to kick myself."

* * *

Has Given Up Poker.

HIS long years in public office have left Garner mad at nobody.

"There's just some people I like better'n others," he said, with a smile. When I asked him if that included John L. Lewis for describing him as "a laboring, poker-playing, whiskey-drinking, evil old man," he threw back his head and roared with laughter.

"Wasn't that something?" he demanded, and laughed again. "After Lewis called me that, I could probably have run for office and been elected to anything."

Lewis may be mollified to know that in recent years, "the evil old man," who is worshipped in Uvalde, has given up poker playing.

"Keeps a man up too late," Garner explained. "When you get to be my age, you can't sit up all night playing cards. You have to take care of yourself. So I gave up poker."

There's only one thing that bothers Garner about seeing his name in print today. That's the burst of mail that follows any story about him.

"Last November when I was eighty, I got two to three thousand letters. I couldn't begin to answer 'em and that bothers me. I get a handful of mail every day. I ought to answer that, too, but I can only scratch a little note occasionally to an old friend."

When I rose to go, this octogenerian whom so many of his fellow countrymen still regard as the highest type of public servant, had one final admonition.

"If you write anything about me, don't call me an elder statesman," he ordered. "Damned if I'm an elder statesman. I'm a retired statesman, and there's a big difference."

Dave Boone Says:

MAYBE we had better turn over the operation of our schools to the kids and let 'em run 'em their way. They seem to feel that way in quite a few communities.

* * *

New York had a high-school kids' strike the other day over a new rule on exams. And in Connecticut a strike against a high school was called because a team lost a basketball game following the flunking of two star players.

* * *

The kids are too close to voting age to be encouraged by school officials or a parent's notion that if they don't like laws, rules or regulations they can defy 'em.

* * *

In Connecticut the police had to escort home from the basketball game the teacher who had flunked the players. Believe it or not, the school officials didn't show any indignation until the teachers forced it by petition. In New York the strikers are girls, which makes it more depressing. We always used to figure that only the boys made trouble.

Taming Wild Roots

By CALVIN A. BYERS

SCATTERED through our woods are vigorous stalks of wild grape. Some have reached the tallest treetops. Today I marked some deep rooted stems for transplanting to my vineyard.

Some of the nursery vines I planted three years ago have died. I will need six stalks to replace them. The sinewy thrifty wild vines may serve a definite purpose.

My plan is to dig up heavily rooted clumps, and soak them in the pond before transplanting them. Before the upstanding stalk has begun to grow,—while it is still dormant— I will cleft-graft with a scion of my finest domesticated vines. Then I will watch for growth on the live wild stem.

Nature is kind to new scions, as a rule—if slanted just right so that the cambium layers meet, and firmly taped so that perching birds will not loosen the newly set wood. Often I have slit the bark and slipped the slanted end of the new scion under, much as buds are placed. When the wound is sealed with grafting wax and tied with a narrow band of tape, this is a pretty sure way to get a fruiting branch started.

There is great pleasure in watching the first growth of grafted vines, and what can be done with grapes is also possible with young cherry, pear or apple trees.

By autumn scions often have grown a foot or more. If the scion is taken from a bearing branch, the new wood may bloom and bear fruit the second year.

Northern Spies—prize apples of any orchard—bear very late...often 13 to 16 years after planting. Should a fruiting sprout be grafted, the late-bearing tree may fruit much earlier. I knew a Pennsylvania orchard where the farmer top-worked every tree and had a crop of Spies when his trees were but seven years old.

A graft is generally tougher and will carry a heavier load than branches from the original tree. It seems as though the graft-wound heals more quickly because the whole root system concentrates upon furnishing food and growth where it is needed.

Horoscope

For Thursday, March 17
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

This is a day of excitement and big adventure whether in the pursuit of pleasure or in the hectic determination for promotion, big business, or basic improvements of far-reaching consequence. In such, there is promise of solid support from those in high places, ready with funds and essential endorsements and cooperation. The energies, faculties and forces may be all "at concert pitch," but herein is the danger, because ambition and common sense may o'er leap themselves.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find opportunity knocking at the door, with loud and potent force, the golden opportunity in sight for those who use discretion, logic, common sense and the shrewd vision to see exceptional avenues of progress and attainment. This holds true in private, social, professional as well as ordinary channels. Ready capital, cooperation and recognition are at hand for wise manipulation. Nevertheless there is danger of being carried away by verve or excitement, with prodigality and ambition running riot and "falling on the other side."

Sleep Important to Your Beauty

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Beauty is as beauty does, so why not get more sleep? You can do without many of the other requirements to beauty for quite a while without looking bedraggled, but you'll definitely need your quota of sleep if you want to keep the roses in your cheeks and that sparkle in your eyes.

You must learn to relax before you can get the most good out of your nap. Merely getting into bed for eight hours, of which four or five are spent in restful slumber, won't do the trick.

If you are an insomnia victim, here is an assist offered by sleep experts: Lie on your back with eyelids closed and legs uncrossed. Raise right arm and clench fist. Then let the arm fall limply while the fingers partly uncurl. Do not shift the arm after it falls, even slightly. Repeat this three to five times with each arm. Then just rest for a few minutes.

Next, bend both feet down (at ankles) and bend down the toes of both feet at the same time. Do not bend knees. Then let feet and toes go limp suddenly. Repeat the tension three to five times, but relax the feet and toes back to their position of rest gradually.

Some girls find they can relax and fall asleep quickly after a bath and a "prettying." Other girls try bedtime snacks guaranteed to make 'em drowsy Ideas on this subject differ and run the gamut from hot milk and caffeine-free coffee to raw onion sandwiches. Find your own prescription for relaxation.

Fire, Police Bills Would Boost Costs

Proposals Given Hearings In House

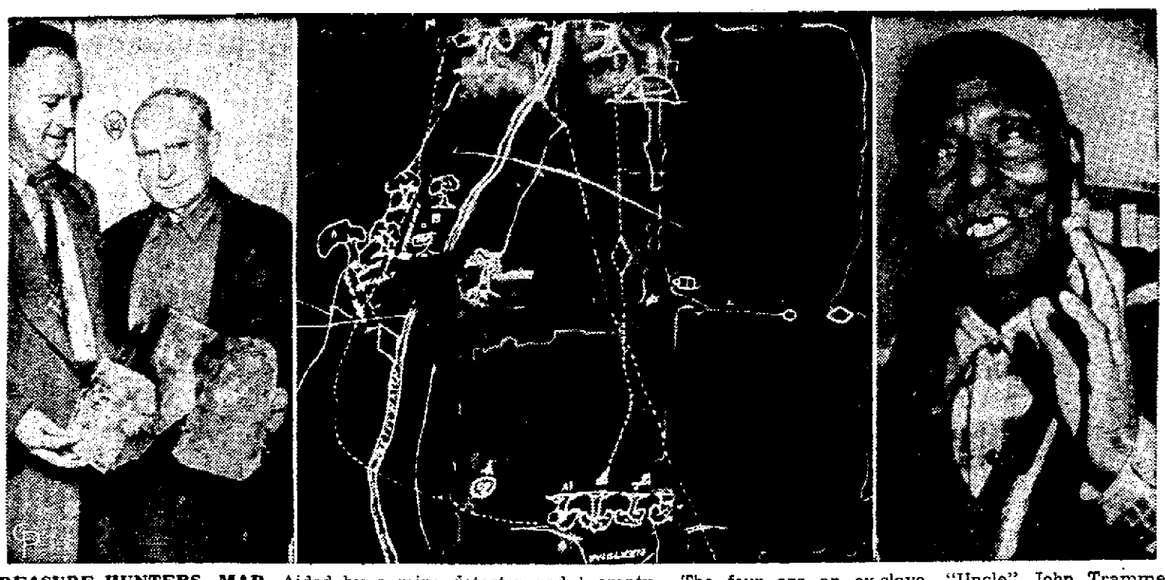
Two bills to reduce the number of hours worked by police and firemen, which if adopted would cost Mansfield an estimated additional $44,000 annually, were before the committee on organization of the Ohio House of Representatives for hearings today.

The bill to put firemen on a 63-hour week and not more than 144 hours in any 14 consecutive days would require about eight additional firemen here. It would cost Mansfield an additional $24,000 annually, but would provide eight additional men for an extreme emergency.

To meet the proposed 40-hour week for policemen, Mansfield would have to add seven patrolmen which would cost about $20,000.

Mansfield's firemen work a 72-hour week, and policemen work a 48-hour week.

The bill originally introduced provided for a 56-hour week for firemen. It was amended yesterday. The amendment was supported by the Ohio Association of Firefighters and Fire Chiefs' association.



TREASURE HUNTERS, MAP—Aided by a mine detector and a map they believed was drawn by Jesse James, four men from the Old West sorrowfully are trudging over the Muskingum county hills near Zanesville in the second round of a search for a fabulous $1,500,000 they think was hidden by the notorious desperado of the 1880s. The first round ended when the crew unearthed an old metal chest, cracked it open and found it—empty. The four are an ex-slave, "Uncle" John Trammell (right), who says he is 109 and that he helped James bury the treasure; Orvus Lee Howk, who says he is a private investigator for the James family; Roscoe James of Buffalo, Colo., who claims he is a nephew of James, and James Cooper, a student of James lore. Howk (left) and Miller examine the metal box in photo at left. Center is a photograph of the treasure map stencilled on a buffalo hide.

Boys' Shoes Go 'Rugged'; Girls Still Prefer Ballerina Types

Footwear for boys has become more rugged and has been designed for hard usage in the past few years, while girl's shoes have reflected the women's trend that seems to incorporate the desire for more 'style' with little regard to the serviceability.

Ballerinas, and more ballerinas are what most young ladies want, in all kinds of fabrics, with various types of ankle straps, and in all models — just as long as they resemble a ballerina. Mansfield shoe stores are well supplied with the Vaughn Monroe's "Dance, Ballerina Dance".

The ever popular saddle shoe is holding its own though, particularly when girls need a shoe that is both dressy and can still stand the daily trek to school and then over to Mary's house after school.

The "Li'l Abner" type of clod-hopper for boys that was popular right afte. the war has died out to a great extent and a shoe more acceptable for social occasions has taken its place at the head of the list.

The new creation in boy's tin-can-kickers has kept the heavy soles of the mountain boy's shoes, but has added tough rubber cleats for a football effect and uses a better grade of leather in the upper part of the shoe which now has a new box toe.

All the colors of the rainbow, and a few colors that no self-respecting rainbow would claim, can be found on girl's shoes occupying Mansfield shoe dealer's shelves. Boys are sticking pretty much to brown though, with oxblood taking the lead over all other colors.

Gives Aid To Growers

County Agent C. N. McGrew is sending a letter to county potato growers this week telling them how to control ring rot.

Losses from the rot were wide-spread in Ohio last year, McGrew said, and the bacteria which cause it are carried from one year and from one crop to the next in seed tubers.

The agent advised growers to take these steps:

Buy clean seed raised in disease-free fields. Be suspicious of any seed (certified or not) which contains rotted tubers.

Disinfect all equipment and tools which may carry ring rot from table stock to the seed by contact. Disinfect cutting knives if diseased tubers have been cut.

McGrew warned farmers not to plant potatoes in a field in which the disease occurred, last year, and to kill all volunteer plants.

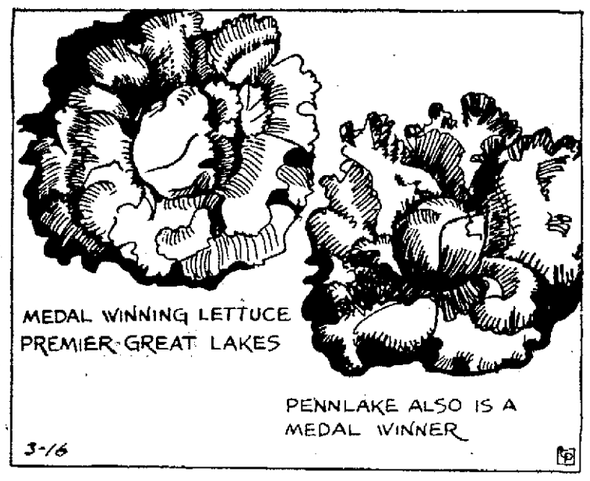
Today's Garden Graph

Better Lettuce For Salads



By DEAN HALLIDAY

For those who take pride in their salads there are two new, prize-winning lettuces—Premier Great Lakes and Pennlake.

Both are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, for in addition to winning bronze medals in the 1949 All-America selections, they are expected to prove valuable additions to home gardens.

Both are uniformly hard-heading, heat resisting, well-protected with outside or wrapper leaves, as illustrated, and resistant to tip burn, which heretofore has kept many home gardeners from attempting to grow head lettuce.

Premier Great Lakes is an improvement of the popular Great Lakes variety. It produces even larger heads than the latter, and a week earlier. It stands hot weather well.

Pennlake usually matures a day or two later than Great Lakes. Its heads are slightly smaller, very solid and beautifully blanched with more refinement and smaller, less prominent mid-ribs. Because it is smaller it is apt to be more usable in the average home garden. The plants can be grown closer together. They are strongly resistant to heat and tip-burn.

In addition to the two medal winners, another crisp-header, Progress, is worth a trial. It also is resistant to tip-burn and in trials has been successful for early planting.

Lettuce is very hardy and can be planted as soon as the ground can be worked. Moisture is absolutely necessary for success with lettuce. It can be stimulated by side dressings of fertilizers with readily available nitrogen.

Lettuce plants resent crowding. One plant should not touch the other. Overcrowding is the reason most head lettuce does not "head up" in the home garden.

John Nobody Returns to Earth; Glad to Resume Harp Strumming

In 1897 an obscure farmer named John Nobody was kicked to death by a mule in the vicinity of Peculiar, Mo.

Having led a fairly reasonable life without cheating anyone—this was before the ways when a man filled out an income tax blank—John went to heaven.

He quickly rose to the third assistant harp from the left in the heaven symphony orchestra. But John's heart wasn't in his harp. He was homesick for earth, because he had left it too suddenly.

So he pulled all the strings he could—and they weren't all on his harp—and made this plea:

"Gimme a two-week vacation from heaven, and then I'll come back and strum my harp forever and be content. But right now I'm still a powerful lonesome man."

Well, he had a good straw boss. The man said, scratching himself under the wing:

"John, you rustle that harp good as anybody. But a lonesome man don't make group music. Go back and take your look-see, and we'll keep your job here open."

Well, Mr. Nobody finally got his celestial passport okayed and plummeted down toward Missouri.

Who-o-o-o-o-M!! Swish-h-h-h-! An Army B-36 zooming around the world with a load of dummy bombs whipped through his long white robe, cutting it in half.

"Biggest durn bird I ever saw," whistled John. "Lucky for me he didn't have his beak open."

He landed on his old farm. Motor cars were zipping past on the highway that used to be a dirt road. Right away old John began to be a little homesick for his harp. He didn't know what a motor car was.

Along came his grandson riding on a tractor instead of following a mule. The tractor halted.

"Whoa," said the grandson, amazed. "Whurr yuh from, old man?"

"Fum heaven," said John. And then as his grandson hesitated, John added testily:

"Don't you believe in heaven?"

"Can't say as I don't" said his grandson cautiously. "Is it anywhere near Washington? We been hearing more from there lately."

The young man took John to home and apologized because his missus wasn't there.

"Went into Kansas City to see the psychiatrist," he explained shyly. "She got another complex last week—just before harvest, too."

Old John picked up a newspaper carrying a big black headline: "War looms."

"Spain still acting up in Cuba?" "We're going to have to whup her yet."

"Spain?" said the grandson. "Where you been, old man? We whupped Spain long ago. We been through Germany twice since then. and Japan, too. Now Russia's acting up."

"Russia?" said John. "Law! Where's that?"

The grandson explained.

"You mean we been through three big wars in the last 50 years and are looking forward to another?" said old John incredulously.

"Possibly, possibly."

Old John walked out into the fields. He hitch-hiked a ride on the next big cloud that floated by.

When he got back to heaven all the angels said:

"You sure got a nice tan on your vacation, John. What was it like?"

But the old man just shook his head and said nothing. They say that ever after that, as his gnarled hands swept across his harp in the celestial choir, John Nobody always looked up. He never glanced earthward again.

Woman Files Sewer Tax Complaint

Paid for Service Never Received

A Mansfield woman told city council last night she had been forced to pay a sewer tax since 1944 although she has no sewer service.

The complaint was made by Mrs. J. M. Etzwiler, 125 Flint street.

"They told me if I didn't pay the sewer tax the city would shut off the water to my home," Mrs. Etzwiler told councilmen.

Council then engaged in a discussion as to why plans for a sewer trunk line on Educational Place, which would service Flint street, had never been carried through.

They indicated they would take action to see that a trunk line was installed there as soon as possible.

Several members expressed an opinion that Mrs. Etzwiler should be reimbursed for the money she paid for sewer tax. The tax is computed in relationship to water consumption. Mrs. Etzwiler said her sewer tax was "about $8 a year."

Council approved the vacation of two alleys running south from Arlington avenue, and the vacation of Brinkherhoff place, on petitions signed by residents in the areas.

Brinkerhoff place, which runs between Baldwin and Bartley avenues, has never been used.

Reduction of special assessments made against several residents on Wood street for the paving of the street, was approved by council.

The adjusted assessments were made to Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jurgens (from $417.75 to $278.50); Mr. and Mrs. Latzie Tomitz (from $499.87 to $333.25); Mrs. Kathleen Rizzo (from $501.30 to $334.20). All are residents of Wood street.

Council authorized the city to lease a section of real estate at the Municipal airport to the United States government for the erection of a standby power shed.

The power shed will provide electricity at the airport in the event of power failure from the normal supply.

The shed will be erected at the northeast corner of the Interstate Airway Communications station building.

Voters Slow To Sign Up

With the last day for registering to vote in the May 3 primary less than three weeks away, Board Clerk Thomas R. Zeigler said today that registrations have been "light."

Only a few persons are visiting the election board office daily to register or transfer, Zeigler said. The registration deadline is April 5.

Requirements for voting are residence in the state for one year, and in the county and precinct 40 days before the primary date.

Women who have registered and since have married must re-register, Zeigler pointed out, since they've had a change of last name.

Registered voters who have changed their residence in the city must transfer their registrations, even if they're still in the same precinct, Zeigler said.

Hosts At Supper

Madison Grange will hold its annual oyster supper at the Veterans hall in Lucas at 6:30 p. m. Thursday. Men of the Grange will be hosts at the supper which is for members and their families only.

Daily Walks Keep Frank A. Miller Fit

Recalls Trip In Freight Car

By NITA BRANSON

Seventy-three years ago this spring Frank A. Miller, former Madison township clerk, rode to Hastings, Mich., with his family and household goods in one end of a railroad boxcar.

In the other end of the car were a team of sorrell horses with shining new harness, a cow and calf, a crate of chickens, farm equipment and sacks of oats and seed corn.

The Millers were moving from their farm in Cass township to a new home in Michigan.

Today, celebrating his 80th birthday, in anything but such primitive style, Miller remembers that ride as one of the most interesting experiences in a wholly interesting life, although he was only seven at the time.

"In those days," he recalled, "it took us two days and a night to make the trip. We were switched onto three different railroad systems."

The box car was thought necessary because Miller's father had purchased a farm of 80 acres and he would need all the things in the car. The family then included Miller, his parents and two younger brothers.

That was in the spring of 1876. Miller was born in 1869.

FRANK A. MILLER . . . likes medical books

IN PIONEER COUNTRY

The farm where the Millers went to live was in pioneer country. About six acres had been sown in wheat the fall before the Millers arrived-all of it by the old-fashioned broad-casting method, Miller said. It was then covered with a spike-tooth harrow and a hand rake. Many of the stumps remained and when the wheat was ready to cut that summer, a sickle was used to cut around the stumps and the rest was harvested with a primitive cradle.

"I went to a little old frame school with plank floors, wood benches and old wooden desks. Pupils numbered as many as 65 during the winter term, aged from six to 21 years. Of course we had only one teacher," he remembered.

When Miller was 15 years old his father "hired him out" to a neighboring farmer who owned 400 acres.

"They taught me to drive a team of oxen, big red 1400 pounders, with brass knobs on each horn. As soon as spring plowing started, I was to follow with a spike-tooth harrow, drawn by the oxen and by the time a field was plowed I had it ready to plant," Miller said.

In addition to following the plow, the 15-year-old lad hauled stumps and burned them and later helped through harvest.

"My compensation was 25 cents per day," Miller recalled, and the day was not an eight-hour shift like today. We got up in the morning by lamplight and ate supper by lamplight."

Three years later, Miller's father sold the Michigan farm and moved back to Cass township. During the next summer, 18-year-old Frank worked in a sawmill and entered Shiloh high school that fall. Later he took a teacher's training course at the Tri-State Normal college, Angola, Ind., and taught school for three terms.

RAISED BIG CROPS

After his marriage in 1895 to Miss Jessie Fickes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fickes of Weller township, Miller remained on his 320-acre farm for 12 years, growing as much as 1,000 bushels of wheat, 1,800 bushels of oats, 4,000 baskets of corn, 110 tons of hay, 100 bushels of flax seed and 30 bushels of clover seed in one year.

"That was the time when oats sold for 15 cents per bushel, baled hay as low as $5 per ton and fat hogs three cents per pound, live weight. But there came a time when we could get no help on the farm so sold it and moved to town."

From then on Miller was successively Madison township clerk, clerk of the Madison township board of education, clerk of the board of health and truant officer and enumerator, and sewage operation engineer. In between these jobs he has been a carpenter and an industrial plant policeman.

But now, having reached his four score years, he's content to take daily walks to see how the town's coming along, watch his favorite baseball games and read his medical books.

The medical books are an echo from the days at Angola when he thought for several months that he would like to be a physician. Now they help him keep well and strong.

"I don't drink or smoke and I watch my diet. I'm very particular about my general daily life," Miller said, adding that his daily walks probably help him keep "80 years young."

Today there'll be a family dinner at his home, 58½ Sturges avenue, where he lives with a daughter, Ruth A. Miller. His other daughter, Mrs. Martin Betz of Mansfield, will be there to help celebrate. His only son was killed at 28 in a traffic accident in 1938 and his wife died in 1940. But his two daughters are right there, he says, when it comes to birthday celebrations.

Sewer Blasts Rock Section of City

Two mysterious explosions in a South Willis avenue storm sewer shortly after 6:30 p. m. yesterday were under investigation today by Sanitary Engineer B. V. BeVier.

The explosions, reported to police by J. H. Bowman, 22 South Willis avenue, alarmed residents of the entire area, some of whom said they saw "bright flashes" in the street just prior to the loud reports.

Police, who said gas fumes were coming from a manhole in the street, then notified Fire Chief L. J. Steele, Gas company officials and Sanitary Engineer BeVier. Gas company workers said they were unable to detect explosive gas in the sewer.

BeVier investigated the possibility that gasoline may have been dumped into the sewer line.

He said ice around the manhole cover was broken, indicating an explosion had occurred in the sewer. Two filling stations and several homes in the area lead into this section of sewer and BeVier's department is investigating to determine if an explosive liquid may have been emptied into the sewer.

Another theory is that sewage may have collected and fermented at the site. That could produce a gas that could be exploded by static electricity or any spark, BeVier said.

Roof Damaged

A defective chimney was blamed for slight fire damage to the home of Carl Bowman, Lenox avenue, yesterday afternoon. Firemen from No. 2. station, called to the home at 3:14 p. m., said the flames burned a small hole in the roof.

CELEBRATES EARLY—

Red and green, traditional Christmas colors, mingled at the News-Journal office today. One staff member, loyal to the Irish, took a quick glance at the calendar and blossomed out in a green necktie. His red face after being reminded that St. Patrick's day comes around tomorrow added another touch of color to the brilliant tie.

Back Phone Measure

Farm Group Wants Bill Reconsidered

Members of the Farm Bureau of Monroe and Washington townships went on record last night as favoring reconsideration of the rural telephone bill. They said they were willing to take any action necessary to get the bill back into the general assembly.

The telephone bill would limit to six the number of subscribers on a party line. It was specifically designed to aid rural home users.

The group met at Lucas school to discuss state legislative measures of interest to farmers.

In addition to the telephone bill, members discussed the turnpike, oleo, and school bills.

The group went on record as opposing the oleo bill, but took no action on the other measures.

Max McFarland reported an a recent legislative meeting in Columbus held in connection with the "grass roots" legislative program.

C. R. Mengert, county legislative chairman, commented on legislative measures pertaining to farmers. During discussion of the school bill the lack of vocational agricultural classes in the county was pointed out. Only four of nine county schools have such classes, it was reported. Burney Jack led the discussion.

At another meeting last night Troy Farm Bureau Council No. 1 also went on record as favoring reconsideration of the telephone bill.

Officer Back On Payroll

Action Amends City Ordinance

Meeting in special session last night, city council authorized appointment of a caretaker at the Clear Fork reservoir and created an additional policeman's post.

The caretaker's job will provide living quarters at the reservoir rent free and a monthly salary of $190 a month, plus a $25 a month bonus. The additional $25 is in line with payments to other men workers employed by the city.

Safety-Service Director Earl Garrison told councilmen the appointment could be made on a temporary basis as soon as a suitable man was found.

An ordinance amended by council at its March 2 meeting was designed to promote a patrolman to a newly-created post of lieutenant with the traffic bureau. To provide a man for the new post the number of patrolmen was reduced by one.

DELAY APPOINTMENT

But the appointment couldn't be made because of civil service regulations and the man couldn't be returned to his former rank because the ordinance provided no place for him there.

The ordinance was repealed and the lieutenant's post will be re-created following the next civil service examination after which time men will be eligible for the promotion.

The city auditor was authorized to pay the salary of the extra patrolman for the period of March 2 to March 15, the time which, on paper, he was not a member of the department.

Truck-Car Crash Injures Youth, 17

Arthur Chester jr., 17, of Lucas, R. D. 1, suffered slight lacerations of the face at 4:30 p. m. yesterday in a truck-car collision at U.S. Route 30 and Bahl avenue in East Mansfield.

State highway patrolmen said Chester was a passenger in a car driven by his father. The truck driver, Carl Bushey, Shelby, R. D. 1, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court today for failing to yield the right-of-way.

Officers said Bushey attempted a left turn while traveling north on Bahl avenue. The Chester youth was treated at People's hospital and released.

Evangelist Says Spiritual Devastation Grips World

Rev. Jack Shuler, evangelist of Baldwin Park, Calif., told a near-capacity crowd at Johnny Appleseed auditorium last night: "We are living in a day of Christian infidelity when those who are called Christians deny Christ."

Rev. Shuler spoke at one of a series of nightly evangelistic meetings being held at the school. The meetings began Sunday and will continue through April 3. Week-day meetings are held at 7:30 p. m., Sunday meetings at 2:30 p. m.

Speaking on "How Atomic War Can Be Avoided," Rev. Shuler cited four requirements of a Christian. They were humility, prayer, repentence, and obedience. He said when Christian people use these ingredients, there will be no atomic war.

Rev. Shuler added: "We are in the grip of a ravishing famine, not of food, but a moral and spiritual devastation."

Shock Used In Unusual Operation

Brain Entered By Eye Socket

By ED EASTERLY

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A new form of anaesthesia—electrical shock has been used for rare brain operations on six patients at the Columbus State hospital for mentally ill.

Dr. J. Fremont Bateman, superintendent, said it was the first time electro-coma had been used in Ohio.

Furthermore, it was the first time that a pre-frontal leucotomy—penetration of the skull through the eye socket—was employed for brain operations at the hospital.

The operations were performed on three men and three women by Dr. Walter Freeman, a Washington, D. C. brain surgeon, while 35 central Ohio brain surgeons and neuro-psychiatrists looked on.

Superintendent Bateman described the operations as successful.

Here is how the operations were performed:

The patients were placed in a coma through shocks of electricity applied with two tiny, metal electrodes, placed on each side of the head.

Approximately 700 milliamperes of electricity were administered in one to three shocks, within one minute.

SCHOOL TERRORIZED—Bobby Reynolds, 8, points to a hole through which he watched three men ransack a classroom and terrorize pupils at Sinai elementary school, Turner, Kans. Wyandotte county Sheriff Roy A. Ferguson (far right) instituted one of biggest manhunts of recent years in that region in search for strange trio.

The shocks rendered the patients unconscious for two to five minutes.

After they were in the coma, a probe about the size of a nutpick was inserted above the eye and used to cut a portion of the brain. The eye was not harmed in the operation. Heretofore surgeons have had to cut through the skull to perform such an operation.

Each operation required five to seven minutes, as compared with the 45 minutes to an hour needed for a lobotomy, in which the skull is opened.

Some of the patients were walking about and talking a few minutes after the operation was completed. Heretofore hours, and sometimes days, passed before patients, who underwent the old form of lobotomy, could do this.

Most of the six patients chosen for the operation were afflicted by what Dr. Bateman described as a chronic intractable obsessional state, a milder form of mental disorder.

This disorder exhibited itself in impulsive, irregular behavior, poor judgment, and inability to make contact with reality. Dr. Bateman said they might be described as persons who lived in a dream world and had difficulty associating themselves with reality.

Both the electro-coma and the leucotomy will be employed in the future at the Columbus State hospital, Dr. Bateman said.

The electrical shock anaesthesia has advantages over the common forms of anaesthesia such as ether, in that patients do not experience sickening after-effects, Dr. Bateman said

Metropolitan Reports to Policyholders on 1948 Business

HERE IS THE Financial Statement of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for last year. It is more than just figures, because back of them is the story of what 32,700,000 policyholders have done for their families and themselves.

The role of Metropolitan, like that of any Life insurance company, has been to help policyholders to make effective their individual plans for protection against the uncertainties of life. This Statement is a brief account of its stewardship.

The amount paid to policyholders and beneficiaries in 1948 was $721,366,364. Of this sum, $263,780,754 went to the beneficiaries of 235,000 policyholders; $147,045,672 to some 450,000 individuals for Matured Endowments and Annuities; and $59,403,238 for 650,000 claims for Disability and Accident & Health benefits. In addition, the total paid included sums for cash surrender values, dividends, and other payments due under outstanding policies.

The total payments by Metropolitan to policyholders and beneficiaries during the last 16 years aggregated $9,346,330,825—a sum which has served as a stabilizing influence in homes and communities throughout the country. This total exceeds the Company's assets of $9,125,145,007 as of December 31, 1948.

These assets are held to meet obligations of $8,591,210,201, of which more than 90% represents statutory reserves for future payments to policyholders and beneficiaries. Over and above these obligations, there remained a surplus of $533,934,806, which is about 6% of obligations—a backlog which must be available against the possibility of epidemics, adverse economic conditions or other unforeseeable situations.

The Company's assets guarantee the fulfillment of the $39,958,517,854 of Metropolitan life insurance in force. In addition, they assure the payment of the 448,394 annuity and supplementary contracts outstanding, and the 6,546,412 policies or certificates providing benefits in event of either accident, sickness, hospitalization, surgical or medical expense.

A few other highlights of the Company's 1948 annual statement are: the net rate of interest earned on total assets reversed the trend of many years and increased from 2.94% in 1947 to 3.03%; in line with the experience of business generally, there were some increases in expenses; the rate of mortality was slightly lower than in 1947; the lapse rate was one of the best on record; and new life insurance issued during the year was $2,904,157,071. The amount held for dividends payable to Metropolitan policyholders in 1949 totals $152,067,254.

Metropolitan investments continued in 1948 to serve various sections of the nation and its economy. The Company is interested in making loans, irrespective of size, to either individuals or corporations, which meet the legal requirements with which it must comply.

A more complete review of the Company's affairs will be found in its Annual Report to Policyholders, which will be sent to anyone on request.

OK Given Galion Case Counsel Act

Judge Approves Hiring of Lawyer

BUCYRUS — Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl ruled here late Monday the Galion city council was within its rights in employing Carl J. Gugler, Galion attorney, to defend it in the injunction suit filed by Galion City Solicitor George Davies against the city of Galion and the Ohio Public Service company.

The injunction was filed by Davies to prevent provisions of a power franchise from taking effect. The case was heard on Feb. 10 and since then the various parties involved have been trying to arrive at a settlement.

The Galion council employed Gugler to represent it and he filed an answer to the injunction suit. Davies then filed a motion to have Gugler's answer stricken from the records on the ground that the council had no right to appoint Gugler as its legal representative. This motion was overruled by Judge Ahl with exceptions being noted.

Attorney R. B. Spurlock, Bucyrus, representing the plaintiff, contended council's powers were purely legislative, making it illegal for it to hire a legal representative. Gugler maintained a council had an "inherent right to hire counsel to defend it."

Oceola Elects Fire Officials

BUCYRUS — Organization of a Volunteer Fire department at nearby village of Oceola was completed this week with the election of Raymond Sipe as fire chief. Carl Shroll was named his assistant with N. G. Alheim being elected a captain and Don Mellor, lieutenant.

The newly-elected officers will work out a plan for better fire protection for the village and present their report at a meeting next week.

Backers of the new department stated there was a possibility that a fire engine would be purchased in the near future. At the present time, the village has a contract with the Nevada village fire department to furnish protection.

At this week's meeting, movies demonstrating a new type of fire truck pump were shown by Capt. A. J. Mannweiler of the Massillon Fire department.

Firm Property Bid Rejected

BUCYRUS — A bid of $10,400 for property of the Cartwright Asphalt company, formerly of North Robinson and now located in Jackson Center, O., has been rejected as being too low by Common Pleas judges in Shelby and Craford counties, M. A. Deare, Bucyrus attorney and receiver for the company, reported today.

The bid was submitted by Roger H. Cowden of Dayton. The companies' assets had been appraised at nearly $33.000.

Receiver Deare said a new effort will be made to sell the companies and complete their liquidation.

Service Fingerprints Identify Crawford Body

BUCYRUS — Mystery of the identity of one James Cronin, a groom for racing stables in Marion, Delaware and Bucyrus, who died last December, was solved last week through the aid of the FBI's fingerprint file of servicemen.

Fingerprint records showed the deceased man, who died of tuberculosis at a Green Springs, O., sanitarium, was Francis Dorr, an Army deserter of Whitewater, Wis. Communcation with relatives in Whitewater revealed Dorr's father had died sometime ago leaving half his estate to his son, who had not contacted relatives for several years.

Dorr was confined to City hospital here before being removed to Green Springs and had told his physician he was a World War II veteran.

Births In Area

SHELBY — Three births were reported today by Memorial hospital attaches here. A daughter was born Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith, of Shelby, R. D. 2, and a daughter was born Tuesday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Foos, Mansfield, and a son this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rabold, 54 Mack avenue, Shelby.

LARGE OR SMALL, BEESS 'EM ALL—Pint-sized cars owned by small fry drivers get exactly the same treatment as full-sized automobiles when the Salesian fathers of the Santa Francesca Romano church in Rome follow their annual custom of blessing cars in the name of Saint Francesca.—(International)

Shelby Drive Totals $1,754

SHELBY — Officials of the Shelby Red Cross fund raising campaign reported a total of $1,754.95 towards their goal of $6,500 last night. This figure is $800.00 behind last years collections at this time.

The breakdown of the amount shows $939.95, residential; $204.00 organizations; $474.00, retail stores and $137.00, industry.

Ward 2—B, with Mrs. Stacy Haun, chairman, was the first group to submit a complete report. A total of $149.70 was submitted by this group.

Two other organizations joined the 100 per cent group. They were: Shelby Milk Products company and the Farm Bureau.

Says Faith Wanes

GALION — "All people, today, are living in a world of fear, because they have lost their faith in God," Michael Bibich, Crestline author, playwright and philanthropist, told members of the Galion Rotary club Monday night.

Ex-Crestline Educator At Marshall

Dr. Smith Joins Faculty at College

CRESTLINE — Crestline friends have received word that Dr. Russel B. Smith, former superintendent of the public school here, and until recently chairman of the education department at Albright college, Reading, Pa. has joined Marshall college faculty as professor of elementary education.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith, daughter Margaret and Dr. Smith's Mother, Mrs. J. I. Smith, formerly of Bucyrus and who resided at the Smith home while in Crestlin, have moved from Reading Pa. to Huntington, West Va.

Margaret, a sophomore at Albright college, will transfer to Marshll college for her junior year and will enter nurses training after graduation.

Their son, Robert, an alumnus of Crestline high school and Ohio State university, went to Japan after graduating from O. S. U. for three years service in a teaching capacity, sponsored by the Methodist church. He now is stationed at Isahya near Nagasaki.

Willard Railman Raps Ohio Lake-to-River Conveyor Belt

WILLARD — In protest to the proposed building of a 103-mile conveyor belt connecting Lake Erie at Lorain and Cleveland with the Ohio river at East Liverpool, J. E. Maxwell, superintendent of the Chicago-division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has issued the following statement to local employes:

"If this legislation is passed and the proposed conveyor constructed, it definitely will interfere seriously with railroad employment in the territory involved, and each and every city and hamlet in the state of Ohio served by railroads will be detrimentally affected.

"We feel that transportation facilities now available are sufficient and fully capable to handle any traffic that would be moved by the proposed conveyor belt and it is to the best interests of all parties concerned in the villages and cities affected to band together now, and take such action as will insure protection of our mutual interests."

O. T. Dysard of the local terminal recently circulated a petition addressed to Rep. Frank Pierce protesting the proposed conveyor belt.

Bucyrus Cuts Price of Milk

BUCYRUS — A decrease in milk prices became effective here today, the first reduction since last November.

New prices for home delivered milk are 19 cents a quart for regular and 20 cents for homogenized, one-cent decrease. Prices at the dairies for "cash and carry" customers will be one cent less than the delivered price.

Other dairy products, including cottage cheese and coffee cream, will be reduced a penny and there will be a three-cent reduction in the price of a half pint of coffee cream.

Ruling Upheld

BUCYRUS — Common Pleas Judge U. U. Ahl has upheld the ruling of W. M. King, Polk township justice of peace, in the $280 action brought by Glenn Richardson, Galion realtor, against George D. and Arlene Wycoff, Galion.

Browns Play In Mansfield Benefit Game

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

THE PRESENT Senior high ball club rates as the best Coach Vern Hoffman has had in five years. . . . The record is not quite up to the 1947-48 team which won 16 and lost five but the present outfit is in the regional tournament while last year's club bowed in district play. Actually the other two clubs Hoffman took to regional meets were the only outfits to win more games than the 1949 johnny-come-lately's. The 1941-42 Tyger club copped 20 and lost five while the 1943-44 outfit picked up 21 wins and only four losses. Hoffman seems to improve with age in his Class A coaching. After knocking off four tournament titles in two years at Amherst, the balding mentor moved to Bellevue where in six years his clubs won only 65 and lost 46. . Then the Redmen started to roll and piled up 53 wins in 68 games in three years. One of the two losing seasons sustained by a Hoffman coached team happened the second year at Bellvue and the other the second year at Senior high. . . At Bellevue, the mark was eight wins and 10 losses in 1930-31 and at Senior high, 10 wins and 11 losses in 1940-41. . . . Hoffman's first two Tyger clubs won 21 and lost 19 and since he has picked up 132 wins and 53 losses. . . . Over the 19 years in "A" ball, Hoffman-coached clubs have won 271 and lost 133 and the "best is yet to come." . . The 1949 club could go all of the way to Mansfield's first state title since 1909 and the 249-50 club will have all but two of the present varsity squad.

MANY BROWNS, Cleveland variety, are still up to their ears in study books. . Nine are finishing up their collegiate schooling. . Lou Groza, Dante Lavelli and Dean Sensanbaugher are at Ohio State while Ollie Cline has transferred to Wittenberg and Tony Adamle to Kent State. The latter pair started at Ohio State. Lin Houston is teaching school in Massillon while Bob Cowan is an instructor in the Fort Wayne school system. . A whole gang of the Browns will be here tonight to play in the Cleveland Browns-Mansfield all-star basketball benefit for the Friendly House.

ED KLIEMAN, who toiled so successfully as a relief pitcher for the Indians last year, doesn't think the Tribe will repeat as the American league champs this year. . Now with the Senators, bespectacled Ed says: "Six guys on the Cleveland club had the greatest year of their lives, all in the same season in 1948—Boudreau, Keltner, Mitchell, Gordon, Lemon and Bearden. And then they barely won it. If one of 'em slumps this year, they don't figure to win any pennant."

Cleveland 5, Made Up of Grid Stars

A high-priced collection of football beef will make an appearance in the Senior high gymnasium tonight wearing sport regalia strange to most Mansfielders.

That would be the transplanted Cleveland Browns' football team which will meet the Mansfield All-Stars in the Friendly House benefit basketball game tonight at 8.30 p. m. The football talent comes naturally as the Brownies have won the All-America conference three years running.

But the Browns are some shakes as basketball players, too. All of them starred in the cage sport in high school with Otto Graham gaining college All - America honors — first team, too — in 1945. Mac Speedie, the ace pass catcher, was all-city in Salt Lake city while Lou Groza and Marion Motley won plenty of all-state honors in Ohio.

Completing the roster are such famous football names as Cliff Lewis, Horace Gillom, Dante Lavelli, Lou Rymkus and Edgar Jones. Speedie and Lewis were the big guns here last year at the Browns whipped the Mansfield Stars, 48 to 31. They tossed in a total of 25 points.

FOUR ARE BACK

Only four members of the 1948 All-Star team will compete with the Mansfield club tonight. They are Dick Casad, Fred Lewis, Ed Chatlain and Trent Snavely. That quartet has been strengthened by a whole raft of high school and college talent.

Topping the list are such former Senior high stars as Nick Gagich, Ollie Cline, Ralph Majors and Jim "Stretch" Regula. Then there is Eldon Pritchard, the outstanding player in the Richland county Gold Medal tournament, and Rollie Ford, the Lexington ace.

Completing the roster are: Dick Roberts, Bob Nikolaus, Leroy Dill and Ed Woodberry. All starred on city and YMCA league teams during the past season.

The Brownies will have a big advantage over Mansfield in size. The Cleveland crew averages about 6-2 and 225 pounds. The only rangy Mansfielder is Regula, who will be the tallest player on the floor at 6-6.

The All-Stars have played four games as a unit to get ready for the Browns. They won three and lost one.

All proceeds of tonight's benefit program go into the Friendly House gymnasium fund. The only expense is incurred in bringing the Browns here. The officials, Mansfield players, timers, scorers, ushers and doormen have all donated their time and the board of education has eliminated the customary rental fee for the cage floor.

ON SALE AT DOOR

Tickets will be on sale at the door tonight, $2 for reserved seats and $1 for general admission. The Mansfield Goodfellows' club is sponsoring the program.

Opening the show at 7 30 p. m. will be the championship game of the annual Friendly House junior basketball tournament. The Bulldogs will meet Grace Gospel for the title and the trophy will be presented to the winner by Graham, the All-Pro quarterback.

The Friendly House battle royal kids will put on their show at the half-time of the feature game.

ACE PERFORMERS—Here are four of the top basketballers who will compete in the Friendly House benefit program tonight at Senior high school. All proceeds of the show go into the Friendly House gymnasium fund. From left to right, Otto Graham and Dante Lavelli of the Browns and Nick Gagich and Rollie Ford of the Mansfield all-stars. Graham was an all-America basketball star at Northwestern while Lavelli starred in the cage sport at Hudson high school. Gagich, the greatest scorer in Tyger basketball history, was a cinch all-Ohio in 1948 and Ford won Richland county scoring title two straight years.

Esbenshade's Scheduled for Ring Feature

Don Esbenshade, the rugged Friendly House middleweight, will get top billing on the amateur fight show scheduled for March 28 at the Colby and Earich showrooms.

Winner of nine bouts in 11 simon pure starts, Esbenshade has been booked against Dick Butcher, of Akron, in the three-round main event. Butcher was the novice middleweight champion in the 1949 Akron Golden Gloves tournament and should give the Senior high student his toughest competition of the season.

Esbenshade has fought three times this year, twice winning a decision over Charles Farina, the Galion battler, and taking a nod over Dick Butler of Cleveland. On the AAU fight card sponsored by the Friendly house, Esbenshade was voted the outstanding fighter.

Mike Wentz and Harold Whisler, co-matchmakers of the coming show, plan for ten three-round bouts. Fighters from Mansfield, Akron, Galion, Ashland and Marion will compete. Tickets for the show will go on sale next week.

★

Four members of the Friendly House ring stable will participate in the Galion VFW fight show next Tuesday in the Galion armory. Bruce Heinberger will battle Tom Anderson, Ashland, Billy Eberhardt is booked against Carol Combs, Marion; Gene Ayers will fight Howard Dixon, Galion and Lofton Fuqua is scheduled to meet Billy LaRue, Galion.

The three-time loop champions will open their home season in the Lakefront stadium Sunday afternoon, Sept 11, against the Baltimore Colts.

Coach Paul Brown announced that all of the games would be played on Sunday afternoons. For the past three years, the Browns' opening contests were played on Friday night.

The complete home schedule: Sept 11, Baltimore Colts; Sept. 18, New York Yankees, Oct 2, Los Angeles Dons, Oct 30, San Francisco 49ers, Nov. 6, Chicago Hornets, Nov. 13, Buffalo Bills.

Baptists Win 'Y' Senior Church Basketball Crown

Park Avenue Baptist nailed down the 1949 championship of the Senior Church basketball league last night at the YMCA, defeating the First Methodist quintet, 39 to 33.

The Baptists, second round champs, picked up the winning margin in the final half. The score was tied at the quarter, 8 to 8, and at the half, 15 to 15. However, Park Avenue grabbed a 30-to-25 lead as the fourth heat opened.

Charles Burton led the winners' scoring with 11 points.

St. Matthew's built up an early lead to defeat Lucas Lutheran, 36 to 34, in the preliminary. St. Matthew's led by quarters, 12 to 8, 18 to 12, and 34 to 23. R. Berry of Lucas had 16 points.

Chandler Gets Into Players Court Battle

NEW YORK — (AP) — Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler was projected today into the middle of the court battle in which three suspended Major league players are seeking $2,800,000 damages and immediate reinstatement.

Federal Judge Edward A. Conger, who says he's no fan, listened for two hours yesterday to arguments on a show-cause order seeking to lift the bans imposed on Max Lanier and Fred Martin, former St. Louis Cardinal pitchers.

He then gave organized baseball and the suing players until next Tuesday to file briefs. He indicated he would give a decision within 24 hours after the case is complete.

Mark F. Hughes, attorney for Major league officials, told the judge he didn't have the right to restore the complaining players to the eligible list.

"The only person who can do that is Chandler himself," Hughes declared.

Hughes said Chandler hadn't been summoned on the case and, in fact, couldn't be under the Sherman Anti-trust act which provides for the serving of a process to corporations, not individuals, within the state.

The attorney asked for a denial of the players' application on the grounds of "total lack of jurisdiction."

Al Kawal Takes Temple Grid Job

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Albert P. (Al) Kawal, head football coach at Drake university the past two seasons and one of Northwestern university's greats, is the new head gridiron mentor at Temple university.

Signing of Kawal to a three-year contract as the successor to Ray Morrison was announced yesterday by Dr. Earl Yeomans, Temple's director of athletics. Salary terms were not revealed.

St. John's 5 To Battle In Regional Meet

The St. John's basketball team, one of the classiest outfits in the Junior Church league, will represent Mansfield in the regional church basketball tourney Saturday in Fostoria.

Only teams of youngsters 16 years of age and younger may participate. Winner of the Fostoria tourney goes to the state meet in Columbus.

Lima and Bellevue play in the first tournament game at 1 p.m. while Fostoria meets Toledo in the second contest. Mansfield drew the only bye and will meet the Lima-Bellevue winner at 3:30 p.m. The title game is scheduled for 7 p.m.

St. John's, managed by Chug Floro, former Senior high athlete, has won 14 and lost one this season and is currently in third place in the Mansfield YMCA Junior Church loop. St. John's has won 45 and lost three over a three-year period.

Mansfield starters are: Jim Rubino and Dick Gore, forwards; Fritz Stahlheber, center and Rex Strine and Harold Schaus, guards. Stahlheber is the tallest at 6-1.

Dayton Coach Gets New Job

GRANVILLE, E — (AP) — Merlin M. Eikenberry of Dayton, coach at Oakwood high school, yesterday was named head basketball and baseball coach of Denison university.

The 31-year-old high school mentor also will act as football line coach and assistant professor of physical education.

He replaces Rix N. Yard as Denison basketball coach. Yard went to the University of Pennsylvania as freshman football coach. Eikenberry replaces Woody Hayes as baseball coach. Hayes went to Miami university.

High-Flying Falcons Now NIT Favorites

NEW YORK — (UP) — The dubious honor of being the favorite in the upset-riddled national invitation basketball tournament was handed today to the high-flying Falcons of Bowling Green.

That's really putting the smooth operators from Ohio on the spot, in view of the four trimmings taken by the seeded teams in the quarter-final round Monday. After that fiasco, none of the four survivors wants to be mentioned as the favorite for anything.

The new respect for Bowling Green was evident when the Falcons were made five-point favorites over San Francisco in one semi-final game at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. As for the Bradley-Loyola of Chicago game, the odds - makers refused to make a favorite and called it a toss-up.

It was plain how Falcons' coach Harold Anderson felt about the sudden rise of his team from an "after-thought" entry to the favorite.

"That's the kiss of death," said Anderson when he heard Bowling Green was being picked over San Francisco.

Anderson was laughing when he said it, though, and obviously he's going to give the jinx a good tussle.

Bob Feller's 177 American League victories is the highest total among active junior league hurlers.

Ohioan Is Member Of Amputee Pin 5

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — (AP) — Capt. Paul Ripley of Marietta, Ohio, was a member of a five-man amputee team from Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C., which bowled 1404 in the American bowling congress tournament last night.

Ripley's right arm was lost in a land mine explosion in Africa.

2-Ton Wants Crack At de Bums

ORANGE, N. J. — (AP) — Domenick Anthony Galento, known in certain circles as two-Ton Tony (an exaggeration), avowed today that he, too, wants a shot at the vacant heavyweight boxing throne.

The rotund barkeep paused over a glass of bock to repeat the announcement he has been crying on his far-flung wrestling tours these past weeks.

"I'll moider de bums," he observed.

His manager, one Willie (The Beard) Gilzenberg, seconded the motion. "You know," he confided, "Tony's been hurt more wrestling than he ever was when he was boxing."

One exponent of the grab-and-groan business, Orville Brown, sprained Galento's back in Kansas City "so he couldn't stand up for a week," reported the Beard.

Galento marked his 39th birthday Saturday, but he argued that he is "as good today as I ever was."

"Anyhow," he demanded, "who are these guys in line for the title today. They're all guys fighting when I was." All, that is, except Ezzard Charles, who Galento tags as "a light heavy, anyhow."

"They try to laugh Galento off," declared the Beard, "but nobody will fight him."

Galento's farthest advance on the high road to the heavyweight crown was when he fought Joe Louis in 1939. He lost in the fourth when referee Arthur Donovan stopped the fight.

Roy Welmaker Wins Second Straight for Tribe

Look-See Pitcher Allows Only 1 Hit

TUCSON, Ariz.—(INS)—The name of Roy Welmaker took on new prestige around the Cleveland Indians' training camp today as the Tribe prepared for a two-day invasion by the Chicago White Sox.

Welmaker, a 27-year-old Negro southpaw in camp merely on a trial basis, chalked his second victory in as many days as Cleveland edged the New York Giants, 9-8, in 10 innings at Phoenix yesterday.

The Georgian, who had to go but one frame Monday, gave up only one hit in his three-inning stint yesterday. He permitted just one man to get to second, and one to third before Catcher Ray Murray blasted one over the left field wall in the top of the 10th.

SHOULD SIGN UP

Although Welmaker is in camp only on a look-see basis, it appears he will be offered a contract in view of his two impressive performances.

Several other Clevelanders shared the day's honors with Welmaker. Bob Lemon turned in an excellent mound chore and both Larry Doby and Orestes Minoso, rookie third baseman, shone afield.

Lemon set the Giants down with two hits in four innings, but one was Willard Marshall's second-frame homer.

Doby got only a double in four times at bat, but really sparkled on defense. He made three sensational plays in center field, one a diving catch in the 10th inning that kept the tying run from crossing the plate.

Minoso got to Larry Jansen, the Giants' ace, for a two-run homer in the fourth inning, and handled three difficult chances with ease.

SAD SAM SLOPPY

The Indians would have won going away, but for a sloppy relief job by Sam Zoldak. Sad Sam gave up 11 hits and five runs in three innings.

Rookies Lyman Linde and Mike Garcia were to hurl for Cleveland today.

Manager Lou Boudreau announced that Al Rosen will get the starting call at third base for the next few days, replacing the brilliant Minoso.

Trio of TKO's Feature Fifth Tyger Tourney

Three TKO's and five decisions marked the fifth annual Senior high school boxing card yesterday afternoon in the school gym.

Technical knockouts were scored by Lightweight Lowell Conner, welterweight John Wakely and Middleweight Stan Byers. Referee Paul Carbetta stopped all three when losers got profusely bleeding noses.

Particularly impressive in the show was Bob Rutan, a charging middleweight who rained rights and lefts from a crouching stance to decison Dave Eccles. Carl Whisler and Fred Brickely, who fought the main event, also put on a fine show.

Brickley won because of a weight advantage of around 15 pounds but Whisler displayed the best boxing skill of the afternoon with his bobbing and weaving tactics. The bout was Whisler's by a slight margin until the third round when Brickley gave him a bloody nose to win the decision by a single point.

Judges were Tom Weaver, Don Esbenshade, and Bill Eccles, the three Senior high boys who have been fighting in Friendly House shows.

Results:

FEATHERWEIGHT — Floyd Foster decisioned Carl Drago.
LIGHTWEIGHT — Lowell Conner won on TKO over Darlin Thatcher in second round
LIGHTWEIGHT — Joe Pleu won by decision from Tom Thoehar
WELTERWEIGHT — John Wakely won on TKO when Jack Kuhn could not answer bell for third round.
MIDDLEWEIGHT — Stan Byers won by TKO over Jim Stephenson in second round
MIDDLEWEIGHT — Joe Lukon won by decision from Jack Russell
MIDDLEWEIGHT — Bob Rutan won by decision from Dave Eccles
LIGHTWEIGHT — Fred Brickley won by decision from Carl Whisler.

Mikan Paces Pro Scorers

NEW YORK — (AP) — George Mikan, towering center of the Minneapolis Lakers, today had the basketball association of America's individual scoring title virtually wrapped up.

Mikan tops the curcuit in scoring with 1,586 points, 128 more than runner-up Joe Fulks both of the Philadelphia warriors has netted. The Laker star and Fulks both have four games left to play.

Mikan also has the best average per game, 28.3 points and leads in field goals, 546 and free shots made, 494.

Willard 'Stovers' Plan Big Session Sunday at Eagles

WILLARD — The recently organized Willard chapter of the National Hot Stove League and Old Time Ball Players association will soon launch an intensive membership drive.

During the campaign the charter, which carries the signatures of Denton "Cy" Young and Billy Southworth, Boston Braves manager, will be kept open. At the request of Cy Butler of Alliance, national president, a special meeting of the organization has been called in Willard Sunday in the Eagles hall. He plans to be present and to explain the purpose of the league.

The sixty original members, signed at the organization meeting, have already been increased, and it is expected that this will be more than doubled by the time the league gets fully under way in its plans for participation in the coming Diamond Jubilee.

Willard's new officers are M. R. Lindsey, president; William McDowell, vice president; and Henry Wynne, secretary-treasurer.

ELDON PRITCHARD . . . Outstanding Player

★ ★ ★

Pritchard Is Named Leading Player In Gold Medal Meet

Eldon Pritchard, Frankie Mitsch's Corner Store guard, today was named as the outstanding player of the Gold Medal basketball tournament.

Pritchard, guard on the consolation winners, was cited by the five-man tournament committee for all-around play rather than high scoring. He tallied only 41 points in the four games he played.

He will receive an attractive plaque and a gold basketball as symbols of the award. Pritchard starred on Madison's 1948 district Class A championship team.

Most decorated player, however, is Ed Chatlain of Martin Hardware who is to receive a silver basketball for being the second outstanding player, a gold metal for being tournament high point man and a silver medal for scoring the most in one game.

Chatlain scored 77 points in three games, 37 of them in the first tilt against Ontario Community.

Other awards announced today included those for sportsmanship and most spectacular shot.

Blaine Dowler of Mitsch's, Sam Roberts, Penn Auto-Sporting Goods and Ralph Majors, Komito's Clothes, each received medals for sportsmanship. Bruce McGinty, Martin Hardware, got a gold basketball for a hook shot from deep in the corner against Ontario Community.

Silver merit medals were given to ten outstanding players on teams defeated in their first game. These went to Bob Boyd. Independents; Mel Shobe, First Methodist; Garfield Keen, Salesmen; Lester McNeely, Lucas Lutheran; George Russell, Au Construction; Max Tinkey, First Christian; Gerald Crawford, Ontario Community; Melvin Harner, AVC; Dalton Braddock, Mansfield Tire 2; Chuck Burton, Park Avenue Baptist.

Committee making the awards was composed of Bob Shade, Dave Shelley, Clarence Herrick, Jim LeMunyon and Stan Kamen.

Strange Trade May Give Bucs National Title

SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF. — (AP) — The winter's strangest baseball deal may be the deciding factor in giving the Pittsburgh Pirates their first national league flag in 22 years.

The deal, a straight cash transaction now believed to have involved at least $125,000, brought Murry Dickson, a trim little righthanded pitcher, to the Pirates from the St. Louis Cardinals.

The sale was strange, first, because it was made without the knowledge or consent of Eddie Dyer, Cardinal manager, for whom Dickson worked a whopping 252 innings in 42 games last season.

It also was strange because it is almost certain that another national league club, the New York Giants, offered more for Dickson than Pittsburgh paid. Mention of the deal always elicits an arched eye-brow.

"Somebody owed somebody a favor," is a typical comment from rival national league officials.

At any rate, Dickson is a Pirate now, and he is happy and so is his new manager, Billy Meyer. He will be strictly a starter for Meyer, instead of a workhorse, and he rounds out what could easily prove the best balanced staff in the senior league.

Heavier Paige Shows Up In Indians Camp

PHOENIX, ARIZ. — (UP) — Satchel Paige went into training with the Cleveland Indians today a bit heavier but more confident than ever. And he doesn't look a day older.

"I weigh 185 pounds," he reported in his matchless accent. "More'n ever in my life.

"No gall stone operations for me, no sir. I been training in Hot Springs for two weeks and eatin' a lot of good sea food down in Mobile all winter."

What Paige will do in the way of training has been a joking matter in camp for some time. It is a very simple problem to the 42-year-old negro pitching ace.

"I'll train like anybody says or the way I always has," he said blandly. "I hits a lot of fungoes and I runs."

Paige won six ball games for the Indians last year. He is sure he will win more this season because he is an Indian from the start and because he believes his control, which already was excellent, will be better.

"I tried pretty hard last year," he said. "Lot of people dependin' on me to make good and I was pressin'. Won't be so hard this time."

Manager Lou Boudreau has intimated that his plans for Paige are about the same as they were last year. He will relieve as often as possible and be started in certain spots which are advantageous.

Around the Baseball Drill Camps

TAMPA, FLA. — (UP) — The Cincinnati Reds always can be counted on to have one of the National league's top pitching staffs and this year it will be no different.

Herman Wehmeier, Red Lively and Ken Burkhart looked as if they were in mid-season from yesterday and they combined to hold the Boston Braves to three hits in Cincinnati's 11 to 1 triumph. The Reds reached three Boston hurlers for 17 hits, including a triple, double and single by outfielder Johnny Wyrostek.

The Reds were scheduled to travel to Clearwater today for a game with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Dickey Is Teacher...

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. — (AP) — Bill Dickey, New York Yankee coach and former star catcher, is teaching the finer points of the trade to Joe Garagiola in addition to Yogi Berra Garagiola, St. Louis Cardinal catcher and the Yanks' Berra, both come from "the hill" section of St. Louis.

Cal Abrams Hits...

VERO BEACH, FLA. — (AP) — The hitting of rookie outfielder Cal Abrams continues to be the talk in the camp of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Abrams, a Brooklyn native, got two singles against the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday to boost his total to eight for 13, a blistering .538 pace.

★

Tex Gets Chance...

SARASOTA, FLA. — (AP) — One of the questions plaguing Boston's Red Sox and their supporters in the American league flag chase may be answered partly today when Tex Hughson takes the mound against the St Louis Cardinals.

Tex pitched 19 not so hot innings last season. Today's test should shed some light on the potentialities of the Sox pitching. Rookie Chuck Stobbs, the bonus southpaw who shined the bench last season and lefty Earl Johnson will follow Hughson to the hill.

Mize Rests Knee...

PHOENIX, ARIZ. — (AP) — Johnny Mize, slugging New York Giant first baseman, is resting a stiff knee. Mize stumbled on the base paths recently and is taking things easy.

★

Plans Lefty Switch...

ORLANDO, FLA. — (AP) — Manager Joe Kuhel of the Washington Senators is grooming rookie Clyde Vollmer for an outfield switch against left handed pitchers.

Buddy Lewis, Gil Coan and Ed Stewart, the regular outfield, are all left-handed hitters, Vollmer, a right handed batsman, may see action often if other clubs in the league begin saving their southpaws for games with the Senators.

Gregg Worked Over...

PASADENA, CALIF. — (UP) — Hal Gregg gave Chicago six hits and four runs in the first two innings and the White Sox took it from there to hand the Pittsburgh Pirates "B" team a 6 to 4 defeat yesterday. Gregg Cliff Chambers and Bob Muncrief took an 11-hit working over from the Sox with Gregg giving up most of the blows, including a home run by Dave Philley The come-back bid of Bill Bevens, pitcher of a world series one-hitter for the Yankees against Brooklyn in 1947, hit a snag in the game. He pitched three innings and handed out four walks, two singles and a wild pitch which netted the Pirates three runs.

★

Bums Beat A's...

VERO BEACH, FLA. — (UP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers hoped to make it two victories in two days over the Philadelphia Athletics today. The Dodgers rallied for two runs in the ninth inning to defeat the A's, 4 to 3, yesterday at West Palm Beach. Gil Hodges, who had homered in the seventh, doubled to score Billy Cox with the winning run.

20 Rookies Strive For Tribe Positions

By HENRY RIEGER

TUCSON, Ariz.—(UP)—One look at the 20 new faces around the training camp here and a stranger would think the Cleveland Indians were last-placers trying a desperate shake-up instead of the world champions.

You can bet that none of the Tribe regulars who battled to the flag last season will be taking life easy in '49—there are too many eager rookies and determined veterans around who want their jobs.

Some of the best-looking newcomers are infielders, and yet in this department the Indians seem quite willing to meet the season opener with four 30-years-old-and-up performers in the lineup. One of this quartet is a newcomer, Mickey Vernon, who was acquired from the Washington Senators, and Vernon will be the youngster of the group at 30.

Second-Baseman Joe Gordon is 34, Shortstop-Manager Lou Boudreau is 31, and Third-baseman Ken Keltner is 33.

Vernon is apparently set at first base despite his slip to a .242 batting average last season. Boudreau has placed him under the care of Coach Tris Speaker and the "Gray Eagle" is confident he can help Mickey get back some of the form he had in '46 when he led the league with a .353 average.

NONE CAN LOAF

It will take dynamite to move Gordon, Boudreau, or Keltner out of the lineup, but none can afford to loaf.

Al Rosen, 24 years old, is reckoned certain to break into the Tribe infield in the near future. Two years ago he led the Texas league with a mark of .349 at the plate and last year he had a .327 average when he moved up to Kansas City in the American association.

Ray Boone, 24-years-old, is up for his third crack at an infield job. Last year he smacked the apple at .355 for Oklahoma City of the Texas league. Also in the infield department is Roberto Avila, a Vera Cruz, Mexico, native who played with Baltimore last year after three seasons in the Mexican and Cuban leagues.

The outstanding rookie in the outfield is Herman Reich, a long-time Pacific Coast league player who was acquired in the draft last November from Portland, Ore. Reich, who hit 323 for Portland, is 30 years old and this may be his last chance to crash the majors.

NOT LIKE KIDS

And you can't call three other newcomers kids, either—Catcher Mike Tresh and Pitchers Early Wynn and Frank Papish.

With 35-year-old Tresh, a Chicago White Socker last year, teaming with Jim Hegan, the Tribe has an experienced and canny back-stopping crew. Wynn, 8-19 with Washington last year, is 29 years old and Papish, 2-8 with the White Sox, is 31.

But the oldsters could prove the pennant "insurance" and, with venerable Satch Paige pitching on the premises, they won't lack for inspiration to keep their careers rolling through the years.

Chicago Bears Roster May List 4 QB's

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

CHICAGO — (INS) — Sid Luckman may yet turn up in the uniform of the New York Bulldogs, a team he was supposed to coach before Ted Collins got pressed for time and scared up Charlie Ewart instead.

Luckman, who after all these years is now the number two quarterback for the Chicago Bears (Johnny Lujack is number one), may be the one to go if and when Nick Sacrinty decides to return to the Bears.

It sounds like a game of musical chairs, and it looks like one, too. Sacrinty was substituted to Luckman during the 1947 National Football league season; as such, he turned in a performance that branded him one of the great quarterback-s t a r s-t o-b e- in football.

But the former Wake Forest back had always nourished the ambition to be a doctor. Accordingly, he spent the 1948 season studying medicine, while owner-coach George Halas of the Bears was shelling out for Lujack and Bobby Layne to assist Luckman.

WANTS TO PLAY

Now, good reports have it, Sacrinty is willing to play another season with the Bears. That would give the Chicago team four quarterbacks—Luckman, Lujack, Layne, Sacrinty—and how crazy can you get?

If Halas were to rid himself of one of the four, there is good cause to believe the one would be Luckman. Lujack will remain with the Bears at all costs. Sacrinty, quite probably, would return on the understanding that he play for the Bears. And some folks say Layne has a no-trade contract.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig finished one-two in American League home run hitting four straight years—1927-30 and in 1931 they tied for the lead.

"Better Children For A Better World"

Dedicated To The Welfare Of Children Of All Ages

Those happy children we all know,
Who laugh and play, and grow, and grow,

Will one day have the world's affairs
To solve and settle, as their cares.

Perhaps some boy right out your way
Will be our President some day,

But even without such great fame—
Good Citizen's . . . that's our real aim.

The things we do to help them now
Will have a bearing on just how

They'll be prepared to handle things,
The problems that adulthood brings.

Their health and welfare takes first place
In getting ready for life's race,

The things they eat, and wear, and do,
Must be well chosen NOW, by you.

From cradle days to teen-age years,
With all its fun, and sometimes tears,

You want them strong in body, mind,
To grow up useful, thoughtful, kind.

To help them to achieve this aim,
To be a credit to your name,

The next few pages bring a host
Of just the things they'll need the most.

Read carefully these pages through
Of things sure to appeal to you,

To bring you the parental joys;
Of happy, healthy girls and boys.

Devices Make Things Easier For Mother

The nursery can be one of the prettiest rooms in the house these days with the new leather upholstered furniture being shown for the comfort of the youngsters.

One three-piece set includes a crib wardrobe chest and toy box, all upholstered in either pink or blue washable leather. It's a new process and one that many housewives will like.

The furniture has a blonde finish and the sides of the crib lower with one flick of the wrist. The toy chest is lines inside and out with leather.

There also is a new water proof mattress on the market that is specially constructed to insure perfect posture as the child grows older.

Something else to make life a little easier for the young mother is a walker-stroller constructed for the most part in magnesium which makes the stroller many times lighter and thus easier to manipulate on steps and crossings, than the other types.

TINY TABLE TOO

A small table which is almost a replica of a bridge table stands 21 inches from the floor and the upholstered top slips out of the aluminum frame to be replaced when baby scratches it up.

Another innovation in baby furniture is the no-draft play pen which has a solid wall from the base of the pen half way up. This prevents the drafts from the floor from reaching the child. It also has a collapsible side so that the baby can get in and out without difficulty.

Disabled veterans from Bellville are making some tables and chairs for children. The furniture is sturdy and looks like it can stand a great deal of rough treatment. Some articles are upholstered in leather and others are plain wood.

And for the last word in comfort, there is a new gadget on bathinettes that enable mother to lift the baby from the bath and lower the top of the bathinette with her foot, by pressing a lever, without putting the baby down.

Then she can proceed with the powdering and diapering on the flat top, saving time and eliminating the danger of the baby getting in a draft while she readies the bathinette, for the next operation.

Unqualified Teen-Agers Give Parents Added Worries

School For Baby Sitters Needed

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The teen-age baby sitter alerted.

"What is that noise?" she asked nervously.

"It's our baby," chorused the two small youngsters she was undressing for bed. "He's locked in Mama's room. You can't get him. Mama doesn't want anybody to touch him. He'll stop crying soon."

But the baby did not stop crying. For two hours, the sitter listened to that wracking wail. Ten o'clock, when the mother was due, came and passed. When the sitter had not reached home at 11 o'clock her own mother came for her. At midnight she telephoned police headquarters which dispatched a matron post haste. She unlocked the door, found the baby running a temperature, and sent for a doctor. The baby sitter's mother took her daughter home in tears

At 4 a. m. the children's mother rolled in, full of good cheer which snuffed out like a light, when she learned what had happened. She was not an indifferent mother. But she had been chained to the children for months in the absence of their father (a ship's officer) and when she finally had a little fun it went to her head.

The next day, a block down the street, a young mother left her 4-year-old, Henry, in the care of a sitter (who had brought her friends with her) and hurried out to do some marketing. Ten minutes ahead of schedule she came home in the rain to find the sitter gone and the living room a mess of mud and pop bottle stains. Henry who had been locked outside finally was found, splashing around in the rain with the key in his pocket. That night he had croup.

Stories like that, steadily mounting in number, spurred the Quaker Emergency Service recently to present something new — an eight weeks' New York training course for baby sitters, which indirectly included some training for parents. It was sponsored by the Kips Bay-Yorkville District Health Committee (a citizens' group) and directed by Mrs. Gladys Witt Romanoff, New York child psychologist. So far as Mrs Romanoff knows the course is the first of its kind.

Students taking the first course were taught how to feed, bathe and diaper babies, soothe the fretful, amuse the lonely, quiet the noisy and make friends with their charges. They also were taught what information to get from parents. A second course will begin soon.

"The sitter is here to stay," says Mrs. Romanoff, "and it's time we gave her some training for the serious responsibility she takes and established some legal standards for her. I'd like to see a national law stipulating that baby sitters must be at least 16 years old and have a certificate showing they have had definite training for the job. They also should be required to have a lung examination, for it is possible for them to have tuberculosis without knowing it and give it to the children.

"There also should be some standards for parents. The situation which produced the sitter developed in a haphazard fashion and so has the job.

"The funniest sitter story I know concerns some friends of mine. They left their 4-year-old son, Pete, in the care of a 16-year-old boy one night. When they came home at 11 the sitter was sound asleep and the youngster's bed was empty. His bathrobe and slippers were missing too. The frantic father called the police. While he was talking to the sergeant the door opened and Pete walked in — clutching a quarter in his hand.

"Where had he been?

"Well, it seems the doorbell rang and the sitter — being asleep — didn't answer it, so Pete did. A next door neighbor wanted to know if the sitter would keep an eye on her baby while she went to the movies. Pete said, sure, he would look after it. So, while his own sitter slept, Pete earned a quarter watching the baby next door."

Would Revise Price Formula

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Agriculture department today recommended revision of the federal formula for determining prices producers receive for milk in a tri-state marketing area which embraces six cities in Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia

The department urged that the formula provide for a prompt incentive price boost of 25 cents per 100 pounds of milk in the fall, whenever it appears that production will not be great enough to meet the demand of the fall and winter months.

That would amount to an increase of slightly more than one-half cents a quart. There are about 44 quarts in 100 pounds of milk. This price boost would apply only to fluid milk, skim milk and flavored milk drinks.

Publishers Hit Postal Boost

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The American newspaper publishers association has declared proposed postal rate increases "would drive every newspaper from the mails." It added proposed new regulations could permit "a fanatical bureaucrat" to determine the content of newspapers.

The ANPA's views were outlined in statements prepared for presentation to the house post-office committee. The statements were by Josh L. Horne, publisher of the Rocky Mount, N. C., Telegram and chairman of the ANPA Postal committee, and Elisha Hanson, ANPA General counsel.

Wise Selection of Children's Apparel Essential to Health; Saves on Budget

In these days of serious attention to children's needs, no child need develop any sort of a complex through ill-fitting clothes or ill-adjusted play equipment.

Mansfield's stores are full of efficient facilities, well-trained personnel and the right kind of equipment that should meet the requirements of any child.

All sorts of apparel are on display in departments of Mansfield stores and supervising the stocks are, in most cases, women who have had years of experience in buying and selling children's clothes and equipment.

In addition to the well-stocked departments, salespeople are ready with expert advice on how a young mother may stretch the family budget to take adequate care of her child's needs, and promote her child's confort and health at the same time.

The right kind of shoes are particularly necessary in the matter of health. In several Mansfield stores, salespeople who have taken special training in fitting children's shoes are on hand to wait upon mothers and their small fry. In a number of shoe stores there are X-ray machines which take pictures of the bones of a child's foot, leaving nothing to chance when it comes to fitting shoes.

This care and attention to children's needs extends much farther than clothes. It includes books and the city's book stores are just now placing special emphasis on the popular book series to offset the bad effects of many of the comics.

On the bookshelves set apart for the display of children's book is a wide selection which will satisfy tastes for adventure as well as the "homey" kind of stories.

The right kinds of toys are also given attention in the city's toy departments. Buyers have chosen those toys which teach expert manual training and provide an incentive for mathematical and handcraft problems. Toys today are planned to teach habits that will have a bearing on the future lives of the youngsters as well as entertain them.

Children today are fortunate; Mansfield's children's departments stress individual needs as well as sales.

Children's Clothing Now Sold By Size Rather Than By Age

Children's clothing is now being sold on a system based on the child's size instead of his age, with standardization of children's ready-to-wear clothing has been developed by the National Bureau of Standards in cooperation with the apparel industry.

It is based on a study made by the United States Department of Agriculture, of the body measurements of more than 147,000 boys and girls from 4 to 17 years old.

Little girls' clothing this spring goes in for many ruffles and frills in the pretty cotton and rayon pastel frocks Soft pastel silk, straw and felt hats are also featured for young ladies of the school age

Never before has there been such a variety of dainty little dresses for girls of all ages Prints and stripes are exceptionally good but the plain colors are also popular.

In the coat and suit line are shown pale blue, navy, beige and brown, with most of the fashions in the tailored style

One style which is most attractive is the checked coat in brown and white or black and white, trimmed with silver or gold buttons. Some are styled with detachable capes and others plain with belted backs.

Small suits feature a pastel skirt and matching cape, fingertip or waist length with plaid or checked vestee, or with contrasting color vestee. Frilly or tailored blouses (just like mother's) will be worn with these junior size ensembles.

Quinns Return From Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Quinn, Ashland road, have returned from a 10-week survey trip of the nursery and landscape business in the southern states and Mexico.

The Quinns visited private estates and gardens in Mexico City and Cuernavaca, Mexico. In Cuernavaca they saw the Borda gardens which are more than 200 years old and which were laid out by a millionaire French silver mine operator.

They spent a week at Acapulco, Mexico, on the Pacific ocean, and visited gardens and plantations in Louisiana, Alabama, Florida, and Georgia.

Schoolboy Patrolmen Help Protect Their Fellow Pupils

City Steps Up Safety Programs

Protection For Children Best Ever

By GAYLORD HAKE

Traffic accidents and violations in Mansfield are showing a steady increase, Frend Boals, traffic commissioner says, but protection for children is better this year than it has ever been before.

On the job rain or shine, as they have been for more than 19 years, are members of the school boy patrol. But the method of selecting and training patrol members has been improved.

The effectiveness of the 218 boys stationed at 37 dangerous school crossings is shown by the fact that there have been only two injuries at intersections guarded by the patrol in more than 19 years. The motorist was prosecuted in both cases, Boals said.

Beginning this year, patrol members were selected by the traffic commissioner and principals from the city's 13 schools from grades they made on a special test. They were given a booklet on safety and patrol duties to study and then took the test. When the 218 members were selected they were shown a special movie "How Patrols Operate."

NEW SIGNS UP

This year 60 new signs were placed in school zones, Boals said. Many were the familiar "school zone — 20 miles per hour" signs, but a number of school crosswalk signs were placed in school areas. It is the first year this type of sign has been used here.

Police patrol of school zones has increased this year too, Boals said.

The cruiser patrols four schools daily except when emergency calls prevent it, Boals said. The schedule is posted in the cruiser and the schools are partroled when the children are entering or leaving the buildings.

One cruiser can patrol only four schools a day, but the department's motorcycle patrolman also has a schedule for school patrol. The schedules are arranged so that the cruiser and motorcycle are not at the same school on the same day.

The Police Recreation club's Police Junior Safety council reaches all children in the grade schools with a safety education program. The council meets four times a year to teach safety to its members.

Bicycle safety is taught through the recently-organized Hi-Y club bicycle court, which has the approval of the traffic commissioner.

With this program of safety education, patrols and mechanical devices, children walking on Mansfield's streets are a lot safer than the adults who drive automobiles on the same streets.

POLICEMAN SUSPENDED

AKRON—(AP)—An Akron policeman, Patrolman Robert Taylor, was suspended from the force late yesterday for sleeping in a movie when he was supposed to be on duty.

Grade Pupils Issue School Newspapers

By NITA BRANSON

There are potential managing editors in the making in Mansfield's public school journalism classes.

In two of the city's elementary schools, Newman and Rebecca Grubaugh, classes include work on school papers. Two other schools, Brinkerhoff and Hedges, have had school papers at intervals in recent years.

But in every case, the teacher advisers of these projects think writing for school papers is a definite help in teaching English. Usually, it is the English teacher who supervises the making of the school paper.

At Newman and Rebecca Grubaugh schools the papers are published four times a year. At Brinkerhoff, plans are now being made for a publication about Easter. Miss Dorothy Smith is adviser for the paper. The Hedges paper was revived this year.

Everything except the typing is done by the children. At Newman school Eugene Larned and Dan Kline were working as hard on ads as any advertising manager of a city daily. You could tell by their faces that they had put their hearts into the job. And of course adding to their pride of accomplishment was the fact that one of the stenciling machines had been bought with money from advertising.

The mimeograph, which Jack Manley and John Miu were running, also was purchased with class newspaper advertising funds.

ADVERTISING PAYS

William Hunter is the business manager for the Newman "Flashes". Miss Frances Wolfe, adviser said, "So far they have collected $30 in advertising this year. We hope later to buy a typewriter, for I have to bring mine from home every time a paper is ready to go."

The sixth grade pupils at Newman plan every step of their newspaper procedure.

"Recently, we ran out of a certain color of paper, "Miss Wolfe recalled," so the staff decided to use different colors instead of going to the expense of buying more when prices are so high."

Editor of the Newman Flashes is Helen Boyle, who with her staff members, "talk up" the paper just prior to publication. Staff representatives go to each room of the building and tell about plans for the coming publication.

When the paper comes out there are from one to three or four pages from each room. The copy is written by the pupils themselves and given a first editing by Helen Boyle, editor, Mildred Holloman, assistant editor-in-chief, and their staff. Then Miss Wolfe goes over the copy to be sure it is all right to publish.

There were 30 pages in the "Newman Flashes" for February, the third issue this year. In addition to articles and poems by the pupils, there's a page of jokes and puzzles, a sports page, a "Yum Yum" or cooking page about good things to eat, and a library corner page. The front piece is a picture of Abraham Lincoln.

For this issue at Newman, 350 copies were made. They are sold to the children and copies are sent to the advertisers.

The oldest school paper in the city is published at Rebecca Grubaugh where Miss Leona Miles has been supervising for the past 14 years.

4 ISSUES A YEAR

Called the "Western Wind-up" from the original name of the school, it, too, is issued twice each semester, or four times a year.

Miss Miles probably set the precedent for school papers and the rules which govern their publication.

"Our newspaper gives the pupils a purpose for writing," Miss Miles said, "I find it very much worth the effort."

Most of the illustrating at Rebecca Grubaugh is done by Jeanne Keller, art editor, who, Miss Miles thinks, has outstanding talent for drawing. Her free-hand sketches of four great Americans—Edison, Alexander Bell, Lincoln and Washington, born during February adorn the front page of the "Wind-up" and sketches by Jeanne are spread through the publication of 36 pages.

At Hedges school Diane Robenstine is editor. Others on the staff are David Bryner, assistant editor, Myrna Sorgen, production manager; John Farrell, art editor; Sharon Ferguson, assistant art editor; Janice Swihart, poetry; Gloria Isch, jokes; Merle Moore, sports; Sandra Smith, cartoons and Irma Mantzer, advertising. As in the other schools, sixth grade pupils do the publishing.

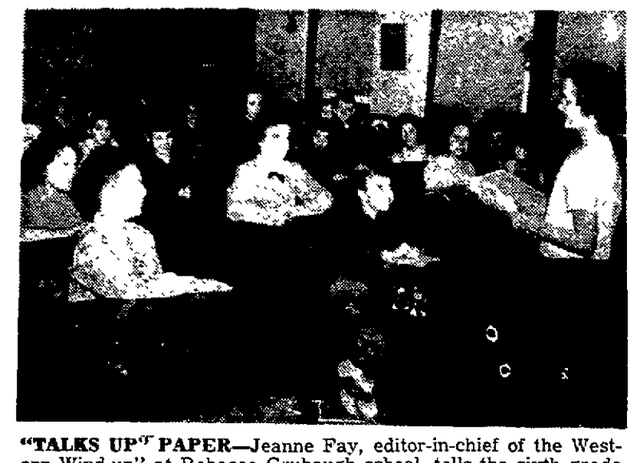
An issue of the paper is planned for next Friday.

Miss Smith at Brinkerhoff said staff members will be elected this week, and plans will be made for an April 14 publication.

Prior to the war the Brinkerhoff school published four times a year, but during the war years the scarcity of paper cut the number to one a year.

CLAIM 15,000 KILLED

SEOUL — (AP) — A delegation from Cheju island Tuesday told the Korean government of the slaughter of 15,000 persons in a year's guerrilla warfare on the island.



"TALKS UP" PAPER—Jeanne Fay, editor-in-chief of the Western Wind-up" at Rebecca Grubaugh school. tells the sixth grade about plans for the next issue of the school paper. Joanne stands at the front of the room.

COLLECT MONEY—Keith McAllister goes from room to room at Rebecca Grubaugh school, following publication of the "Western Wind-up" and collects the price of the paper. With him are Fred Willis, Gathel Payne, seated, and Paul Koons. Keith and Paul are the business managers for the paper. Keith collects while Paul checks off names.

Speaks In Crestline

CRESTLINE — Weldon Bittikofer, director of admissions at Capital university, spoke on "The Choice of a Vocation" before Luther leaguers in Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church here Sunday. Members of Galion's Peace Lutheran church league were guests of the locals.

Party Given For Teen-Agers Should Be Thorough Affair

NOTHING will make your youngsters love you more and cite you as an understanding parent if you undertake to entertain some of their "gang" once in a while. It needn't be an elaborate party, but it should be a thorough affair with invitations and everything.

For young teen-agers, a hamburger banquet would be fine (and easy on the hostess, too). Make the invitations in the shape of a hamburger with rough cut edges and write them with red ink.

For the menu, plan for hamburgers served picnic style on paper plates. A menu that's universally liked by the young ones is: Hamburgers on toasted buns, creamed potatoes, buttered green beans, a cluster of carrot and celery curls, a glass of milk, and, for dessert ice cream and cake, served "hamburger style," too. Bake yellow cake in large paper cups (the kind meant for baking) split, and fill the center with chocolate ice cream.

To make hamburgers glorified enough for anybody's banquet here's a recipe: Mix ½ c. fine dry bread crumbs, ½ c. milk, 1½ tbsp. finely chopped onion, 2 tsp. salt and fourth tsp. pepper. Add 1½ lbs. ground beef and ½ lb. fresh ground pork. Shape into very flat patties and fry quickly and throughouly in a little butter, turning when browned. If these are made large and very very flat before cooking, five to six min. should completely cook them. Serve on split toasted buns. Serves six.

If you want to serve a salad relish banana and greens slaw should be acceptable. To serve 6, shred fine ½ head of cabbage; mix with one chopped green pepper, one c. diced celery, and one c. finely shredded lettuce. Add one c. diced ripe bananas (use ripe bananas —yellow peel flecked with brown). Mix all together gently with French dressing.

Boy and girl relationships will be the topic of discussion April 8 when the Mansfield Blue-Tri and Hi-Y organizations sponsor a program headed by Rev. Edward J. Rydman, minister to youth, First Community church, Columbus.

Rev. Rydman will speak at Senior High school in the morning and will be available to students for individual counsel between 1 and 3 p. m. at the school.

The two groups will wind up the day's activities with a dinner at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 6 p. m. Rydman's subject for the dinner will be "Courtship and Marriage."

Working on committees in preparation for the program are Phillip Bolin, Diana Zehrbach, Jack Kindel, Marty Shiplet, David Stanton, Richard Neal, Virginia Brownfield, Charles Nail jr., Nita Taylor and Thomas Swisher.

Nine Cars Derailed On Pennsy Railroad

TORRANCE, PA. — (AP) — Nine cars of the Pennsylvania railroad's "Pennsylvania," fast New York to Chicago passenger train, were derailed Tuesday near this western Pennsylvania community.

A. M. Seivard, superintendent of passenger transportation, said two dining car employes were injured slightly. One passenger was reported struck on the head by a falling suit case.

Milk Most Valuable Food For Growing Children

Wise parents never forget the value of milk for growing children. They keep it a major item on each day's diet. And they have good reasons for doing so.

First milk has ingredients that help make children's teeth and bones stronger. Calcium in it makes teeth whiter. Milk also aids digestion. It fights acids in the stomach. It contains a number of health giving vitamins and acts to clear the skin of certain kinds of blemishes.

Last year city health inspectors made 368 trips to dairies in the area to check the health of cattle, make sure that all containers used are clean, and that all the dairy products measure up to the standards imposed by county, state, and federal law.

If the milk you buy is labeled "Grade A" that means that there are as few bacteria in the milk as human know how has made possible. "Grade A" also means that the farm from which the dairy bought the milk has a pure water supply, adequate refrigeration facilities, and the proper kind of heat for sterilizing containers.

This rating also means that the butterfat content of the milk is high. Butterfat is the ingredient in milk and ice-cream that makes it a health "must". The inspectors can tell how much butter fat is in a given amount of milk by weighing it. Ice-cream must contain at least 10 per cent butterfat to pass these tests.

Milk is one of the most perishable foods. However, if stored at temperatures ranging from 35 to 40 degrees it can be kept for two weeks without spoiling.

Bottle sterilization is important. When bottles come into an approved dairy they are given a 14 minute bath. At first they are flushed with a hot strong solution to kill the germs, then the solution is sprayed out of them with clear cold water.

The bottles are then filled with milk and capped under careful supervision.

Candidate for Meanest Thief

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A prayer book and rosaries were today in the hands of one who needs them badly.

However, an incidental $50 which also was in the purse stolen by an unidentified man yesterday was needed badly by 22-year-old Miss Rata Ostroske of Columbus.

Miss Ostroske lost her job Monday and her purse. Wednesday. She told police she dropped her purse on the street and the thief scooped it up and ran.

Incentive Breakfast Wins Balky Students

It's not easy to understand why perfectly healthy little youngsters will balk at breakfast in the morning. Some say it's a fear of being late to school if they take the time to eat a good breakfast.

Some say a beginning school child is upset by the complicated change of life involved in going to school, the separation from mother, and adjustment to getting along with a large group of children, and this concern is reflected in loss of appetite in the morning. Some children are difficult about eating in general, with breakfast no exception.

If you discover a child's resistance to breakfast is based on a fear of being late for school, you can settle that by having him get up earlier and showing him on the clock all the time he has to eat before school begins.

A few mornings of eating breakfast and getting to school on time will help soothe his fears on this subject and gradually he will take the routine for granted.

If the child's resistance to breakfast seems based on general loss of appetite or general fussiness about food, more complicated strategy may be in order. The plan of "incentive breakfasts" for young children has proved constructive help for this problem and you might try it if you are having this kind of difficulty.

Settle in your own mind what basic foods your child should have for breakfast. A minimum basic breakfast for a child consists of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter which takes care of from a fourth to a third of the day's food values. Additions to this pattern are desirable for a child of school age, additions such as an egg, or bacon.

Building on this basic pattern, why not plan with the child his menus for breakfast for two or three days at a time? Be sure to include foods he is fond of, to provide the "incentive" toward getting him to the breakfast table and keeping him interested while he is there. He may be fond of foods that at first glance don't appear to fit in with the breakfast meal. Is he very fond of raisins or nuts? One or both may be chopped and sprinkled over a hot cereal to give it extra charm for the youngster.

Even such a far-fetched food as cottage cheese, if it is a favorite, may be included in the breakfast to spread on toast or bread, to serve in a little ball on top of a ready to eat cereal.

Discuss with the child new ways of serving foods such as combining the fruit and cereal course, an idea that speeds up the eating of breakfast, as well as offering variety. If he has a favorite fruit juice he wants every morning, why not indulge him? It may seem monotonous to you but if it captures his interest, it's worth the monotony.

Including a child's preferences in plans for breakfast is an application of psychological principle that has solved many a problem that seemed at first impossible to solve successfully. Try this with your youngster and see if the situation doesn't improve.

Atomic Energy Plan Revealed

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The nation soon will launch a long-range atomic energy power plant program costing "hundreds of millions" of dollars.

Chairman Brien McMahon, D., Conn., of the joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee said the project will get under way shortly after the next fiscal year begins July 1. It will continue for five or six years.

McMahon disclosed plans for the program at a press conference after a meeting of his committee with engineers of the Atomic Energy commission.

Child Wants Books to Fit His Age

Tastes Change As Youngster Grows

Although children's tastes vary greatly in many things, in the matter of choosing books most children follow a general pattern in each age group, according to the children's librarian at the Mansfield Public Library.

The youngest children who have not learned to read like to look at picture books. At first they want only realistic picture books, ones containing pictures of objects they are familiar with and know are true to life.

As they learn to read and their imaginations begin to develop, they become interested in stories in which animals and inanimate objects talk and act like human beings. From this stage they make an easy switch to reading fairy tales.

However, when boys and girls are 10 or 11 years old they again become very realistic. It is at this period in their lives that children read more animal stories than any other type of fiction. Especially popular are stories of horses and dogs.

After several years of reading animal stories most children's tastes change again. The girls become interested in mysteries, career stories, and romances. Older boys, on the other hand, like sports stories, especially those dealing with baseball and football.

Certain books have remained popular with children over a long period of years. One of the outstanding examples is Louisa Mae Alcott's "Little Women," The public library has five or six copies of this book and they all are constantly in demand.

Girls also like books which are written in series such as the "Nancy Drew" mystery books and "The Five Little Peppers" series

However, children do not devote all their reading time to fiction. Such biographies as "The cans" series which are simply written are popular with younger readers.

Expert Chides Parents Who Worry On Child's Strides

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP News Features

Do you remember how you read all those pamphlets and books about how to bring up baby? Remember how you imagined that at 3 he would know so many words and do many things? That's how the books said the average child would develop — and that's how you pictured junior would be.

Well, are you disappointed because junior doesn't seem to measure up completely to your idea of what his development should be? You needn't be, says Byron Hughes, professor of child development in Michigan university's School of Education. In fact, it's a serious mistake to try to make junior fit preconceived and arbitrary standards of development.

"Desirable standards can best be set only in terms of the individual," he points out, "since scientific studies of growth do not indicate life ages when all children can be expected to attain certain levels of growth."

The majority of problems adults experience with slow developing children come from their own unreasonable behavior, he says.

"There is little essentially wrong with growing slowly. It is wholly unreasonable and inaccurate for us to conclude that he who grows slowly is abnormal."

Professor Hughes maintains problems are produced not by a child's rate of growth but by the failure of adults to recognize the individuality of growth and plan accordingly. Parents and teachers should adjust their expectations of what a child should do according to the pattern of growth of each child.

"The adult must understand the child's motives and goals if he is to provide effective educational guidance," he says.

Understanding of the needs of children in relation to their abilities to grow and learn is now being stressed by schools which are giving serious thought to these problems, the educator declares, and consequently "the school is becoming a place where children like to go and not a place where they have to go as punishment for being a child."

In like vein, Professor Clifford Woody of the same university, points out that over-emphasis upon achievements and failure may prove injurious to your child.

"Parents and teachers should avoid having so much concern about the level of the child's achievement that it causes the child to become depressed and to desire to free himself from home and school relationships," he says.

He suggests, on the other hand, that parents having no concern about junior's level of achievement are more injurious to his development than those showing over-anxiety.

The normal child is constantly faced with difficult tasks involving the possibility of failure in performance but the very presence of these difficulties frequently provide a great stimulus to the child and to his personality development, Professor Woody says.

PROTECT OUR CHILDREN

You can replace a car or a house, but you can't replace a child's life. Be careful of your own children and those of others. See that your car is in good shape and not a hazard on the streets. Check up around your home and eliminate the fire and accidents hazards. Don't gamble. Stop and Think.

IS YOUR CAR IN GOOD REPAIR?

A set of bad brakes, a faulty steering knuckle, or any one of a dozen other things may cause an accident and take a life. Don't put off your repairs. If you drive your car see to it that it is always in first class condition.

DO YOU HAVE ANY FIRE HAZARDS IN YOUR HOME?

A pile of rubbish in a forgotten corner or a worn piece of wiring may lead to a dangerous fire. A broken step may mean a broken limb. If you have children you should be doubly careful because children don't think. It is up to you to Stop and Think.

Cameras Popular With Youngsters

By WINTHROP RUGGLES

Photography ranks near the top as a hobby in America and it owes a great deal of its popularity to the children of grade and high school age who have found that it is a lot more "fun" to take an inexpensive camera and record their family and social events rather than try to tell about them.

Small, simply operated cameras that can be used by any 10-year-old boy or girl are available at all Mansfield photographic stores. More advanced models, which have been scarce since the war, are back on the shelves.

The developing of film formerly was considered a costly and complex chemical process, to be done only by older persons. Today, compact, low-priced darkroom kits can be had so that most children can do their own processing in an improvised darkroom in the family bathroom.

Other hobbies such as wood and metal working can be easily combined with photography, for the camera enthusiast can build much of his equipment if he cares to.

Sports can be adapted to photography by keeping a picture scrapbook of all events in which a boy or girl participates, as well as keeping a snap-shot journal of any other activity in which the camera fan is interested.

PAYS OWN WAY

Photography, as a hobby, can be used to earn extra money to pay its own way. All the fellows in the gang will want prints of themselves after they won the neighborhood softball game.

And a good amateur photographer who can take a picture of the group and deliver the prints the next day will pick up enough change to keep his hobby "out of the red."

Most professional photographers started in the field as amateurs. All that is needed to start on the road to photographic success is adequate darkroom equipment, although not necessarily expensive, any camera, and someone already familiar with photography to lend a helping hand in learning the basic photographic principles.

Optimists Help Inaugurate Club

The regular meeting of the Mansfield Optimist club scheduled for today has been postponed. Instead club members will attend the charter presentation of the newly-formed Ashland Optimist club at the Richland Recreation center Thursday night.

Wives of Optimists have been invited to participate in the final step of organizing the Ashland group.

State Duns Police For Witness Funds

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Sixty-four Youngstown policemen who were paid witness fees ranging from $1 to $65 were dunned for a total of $691 today by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The auditor returned a finding against the police in favor of the city's police and pension fund following an examination of city offices from June 1, 1946, to Sept. 30, 1947.

PET DEER—Tootsie, a Washington state deer, has proved to be the neighborhood pet since being rescued when just a fawn. The pet wears a red ribbon during hunting season.

Gay Scarves Accent Easter Togs

By ANN SCHOENMAN

Mansfield merchants have stocked their shelves to the brim in preparation for the spring run on accessories for young girls.

Accessories set off a dress to the 'nth's degree. One mistake in choosing a hat, gloves, shoes or purse and the whole effect is ruined, no matter what the price or style of the dress.

Fashion designers have put their heads together and come up with something really different to make up that Easter outfit, or ensembles which will carry you through the warm summer months.

Accessories must have versatility and a quality classic of good taste. Each must also have an important "extra something."

For Easter you're hat will follow the straw line, ranging from the stiff sailor to the soft old fashion bonnet. The sisal straw derbys will sport a pert flower or some novelty poking up from the velvet band. The majority of hats will have the spring look added with flowers or ribbons.

Gay colored silk scarves peek above the coat collar on early mornings. Tiny jeweled stickpins or a scatter pin or two will hold the bright square in place.

Something new has been added by the purse and shoe manufacturers. They're cooperating this year to give you perfectly matched ensembles. Pastel kids in purses and shoes will lead the Easter parade on Fifth avenue. No longer will it be necessary to search the stores in order to find identical colors.

Short wrist-length gloves will be sported by the chic. Little ruffles or, perhaps a turn back cuff will add the finishing touches. For the budget wise teenager it'll be gloves which can easily be washed at home.

These little fashion items disclosed by the local merchants will add to your accessory smartness during the coming months and help you attain the title "The Smartest Girl in the Eater Parade."

Varied Play Equipment Aids Parents

Children Get 'Kick' Out of It

Now that the first robins have announced the arrival of spring, Mansfield merchants are displaying a wide assortment of outdoor recreational equipment for active youngsters.

One of the surest signs of spring is the sight of children on roller skates. On the first warm day sidewalks in residential areas are taken over by youngsters enjoying this long-popular sport. The shiny new roller skates in Mansfield stores are available in sizes for the little tots as well as their more proficient brothers and sisters. For those who prefer skating in rinks there are shoe roller skates.

The backyards of many Mansfield homes will be the gathering spots for the younger set if they are equipped with some of the outdoor games available this year. Badminton, archery, and croquet can all be enjoyed in the child's own yard.

For those interested in deleloping their children's bodies as well as keeping them happily occupied there are outdoor gymnasium sets. These include swings, slides, trapeze and exercise bars.

Small fishing sets will enable junior to go along when father goes fishing.

Rainy days need not drive mothers to distraction if suitable indoor entertainment is available. Boxing gloves, punching bags, movie projectors, and small bowling sets are the solution when bad weather keeps children indoors. There also are all types of books and games for quieter moments.

Every boy can't grow up to be a big league baseball player, but boys and girls both can have lots of fun playing softball in the neighborhood vacant lot or playground. Bats, softballs, and gloves are being displayed in Mansfield sporting goods departments.

Many cameras selling in city stores are simple enough for older children to operate and photographic equipment is available for those who wish to make a hobby of photography.

Sponsors Dance

The John Todd park association will sponsor a round and square dance at the park pavilion at 8:30 p. m. Saturday. Electrically-played record music will be furnished by Bill Leicy. The dance is open to the public.

Icebox Raids Refresh Students

Honey Good Snack Item

College students after an evening of study like to shove aside their books and have something refreshing. With a jar of honey on hand they can enjoy a nourishing and tasty snack right in the informal comfort of their room with the companionship of fellow students.

There is no bother in keeping honey, for it will not spoil. It needs merely to be stored in a dry place of average temperature. Such homemade snacks as the following are inexpensive too, and take little time to prepare.

Hot or cold honey lemonade after a bout with the books is a real refresher. Mix two tablespoons of honey with the juice of ½ lemon. Stir well. Add one cup hot or cold water according to whether hot or cold drink is desired.

A sandwich pickup always is good, especially if it includes the energy food, honey. Try spreading honey butter on the bread, or on salted or graham crackers. To make honey butter, cream ¼ cup of butter. Add ½ cup honey gradually, creaming the mixture well after each addition of honey.

A honey cream cheese filling for sandwiches is nutritious as well as appetizing. Soften cream cheese with enough honey to spread well. A pleasing variation is to add chopped raisins or nuts.

Perk up that old jar of peanut butter by creaming it with honey. This can be kept without refrigeration.

A pound of honey in a student's room comes in handy in many ways. For instance, use honey and lemon juice to provide a soothing and easily prepared home remedy for throat-tickling coughs. Combine equal parts of honey and lemon juice.

Play Proper Safety Valve For Children

Complete Abosrption, Intense Interest Result

AP Newsfeatures

"It's not easy for adults to see the value of play for children. Subtle deep-rooted attitudes make us resist the whole idea. We refuse to plan for play. We squeeze it out of our schools as soon as we can. So long as it must go on we accept it grudgingly and starve it. The country that once proudly proclaimed the pursuit of happiness as a legitimate human goal now feels apologetic if its children have fun."

So says Dr. James L. Hymes, professor of education and author of two well known pamphlets," A Pound of Prevention" and "Enjoy Your Child," speaking before the annual conference of the Play Schools association.

But, continues Dr. Hymes, if we can shed our out-worn folklore and if we can spot these hidden pressures on us in our today's living, the value of play for children can be easily seen and appreciated.

A child growing up, he says, needs a world where, for a time, the tables are turned and he is the boss. In play he can make that world.

He needs a world where the penalties are not too severe if he acts the way he feels. In play he can make that safe world.

A child needs a world cut down to his size, a world he can cope with, a world just a little freer from restrictions that are too much for him to handle with ease. In play he can create that world where time and distance and speed and gravity do not have the force that they have in real life: where cleanliness and order and politeness do not have the standing that they do in real life; where even the inevitable restriction of small size and lack of skill and inexperience are not as binding as they must be to a child.

NO CHOW—"My bib's ready, but where's the food?" this little daschund asks.

To build a play world, Dr. Hymes says, children need raw materials they can shape: sand and dirt and water; clay and paints; wood, raw wood, boxes and barrels and boards; wheels; dolls; rope the odds and ends of closets and junk yards, the left-overs of kitchens and garages and barns, the scraps from shops and cellars and attics.

Good play offers children success, he says. Good play offers children complete absorption and intense interest. Good play offers children the chance to slough off uncomfortable feelings. Good play has a healing and a strengthening power.

"Today," concludes Dr. Hymes, "we are about to spend large sums on remedial work, patching people up so that they can stand the strains of modern living. Good play can save us some of that money. It can be the means for keeping uncomfortable feelings within bounds so that children, as they grow, can face life and live it, rather than retreat from it or unreasonably attack it."

Child Gets First Test In Life Problems at 5

AP NEWSFEATURES

As children make the transition from infancy to childhood, says Louise Hornbrook, helping teacher in a Kansas City, Mo., kindergarten, their most difficult learnings are those involved in finding out their relations to others, and in coming to terms with themselves. Writing in the Missouri Parent-Teacher, she says:

"In infancy the world revolves around junior and his wants, but as he grows older he is faced with problems in human relationships which frequently are in conflict with his own desires. This is especially true when a child becomes five."

It is then, Miss Hornbrook says, that junior enters kindergarten and for the first time perhaps, comes face to face with large groups of children of his own age who are total strangers to him; an adult whom he probably has never seen before in his life; a room that is very different from any that he has been in before.

This important age of five is a key year in his development.

Approach of Spring Brings Call for New Outdoor Clothes

Care Needed In Selection Of 'Play Wardrobe' Items

Spring days are looming and with the advent of warmer weather experienced mothers are perfectly willing to compromise on the spelling of 'days.' For many of them feel it should be spelled d-a-z-e-.

Youngsters are planning picnics, outdoor tramps, sandlot ball games and other outdoor activities and that's where the rub comes so far as Mama is concerned. Such activities can be rough on children's clothing, a point with which few mothers will disagree.

Net result—that yearly question, "What clothing should Jimmy and Mary have for this summer?"

With vacation time the styles in children's clothing take a radical change, a fact wise mothers bear in mind when laying out some cash for summer wardrobes.

No longer do the youngsters have to go around with that stiff and starched look found so often during school sessions. Now the kids are on their own and comfort can rank along with appearance and utility as a prime factor.

Traditionally, girls are much easier on clothes than boys. At least that's what the 'experts' say. Those proud parents who find time to read the output of these experts, will usually glance out the door, see little Mary blithely smearing mud pies on a new white pinafore, then use the child guidance books for next fall's kindling. For girls can be hard on clothing when they spend their time out of doors.

SCOUTS LEAVE MARK

With scouting annually attracting more and more of the youngsters, and taking them into the woods and fields on summer trips, scout clothing forms a good pattern to follow in purchasing every day wearing apparel. For the girls this means a servicable dress of dark hue which will not show the dirt and a pair of shoes which will provide adequate support for growing feet. Sandals are extremely comfortable, but when fall comes rolling around again the youngsters who have spent the summer wearing nothing but sandals soon find their feet cramped in standard shoes.

For that reason, it is a good idea to alternate summer footwear between sturdy oxfords and the lighter type footwear. For long hikes, picnics or other outdoor trips the oxfords will prove tops.

Boys always get a thrill out of sliding their feet into a pair of 'sneakers' for the summer but here again comes the problem of foot care. Occasional use of these can readily be condoned, especially during active athletic games. But for continued wearing a comfortable pair of oxfords, preferably ventilated, will prove little handicap to boisterous youths and will keep foot trouble at a minimum.

Shirts and trousers are another problem which can be conquered with ease. Most boys enjoy 'peeling' down to the bare skin when the sun is pouring down but can become violently ill as a result of too much of its hot rays. They should have something to protect the skin while letting the sun's vitamins enter the body. A light T-shirt usually provides the answer to this for day-time use while a heavier knit shirt is more suitable for 'dress-up' or evening wear.

Khaki shorts are comfortable for casual wear but here again the outdoors and athletic youth is up against it. On field trips or when playing rough and tumble boyhood games it's easy to scratch bare legs. Here a good substantial pair of lightweight khaki trousers come in handy and can save mother from a lot of hard scrubbing.

SOMETHING FISHY — Betty wants to eat and doesn't mind asking her trainer in no uncertain terms.

The same hot rays of the sun which can injure skin beat down relentlessly all day long on bared heads. It'll cause a fight in better than half the cases, but for safety's sake any youngster playing outdoors should wear some kind of headgear. For boys a light baseball cap usually meets with approval while girls can usually be talked into wearing a light straw of some kind.

The importance of proper stockings is often overlooked in outfitting a child for summer and this is one point the wise mother considers with care. Girls who go in for the more rigorous of outdoor activities soon learn that little ankle socks don't save them from having their legs scratched.

Knee length stockings reminiscent of the gay 90's are much more practical and again pattern after the scouting uniform. In order to avoid conflict with the child it usually is considered wise to purchase these stockings in gay colors, thus creating a 'fad' among the girls. If the long stockings are forced on them, most girls take it as a personal affront. If others are wearing the same thing few will dispute the style.

Boys pay no attention to this line of reasoning, but if properly outfitted their legs are well protected by long trousers. The main concern here is making certain the socks are heavy enough to absorb the sweat from youthful feet. In addition, boys' stockings should be purchased in as large numbers as possible in order that they may be changed at least twice daily.

There you have it parents. Outfit them right and you won't be kept awake at nights doctoring sunburn, blisters, scratches, and sore feet.

Before making the omelet for a Western sandwich, the skillet may be rubbed with a cut clove of garlic if desired.
